MRS. GLOVER IS HOTLY ATTACKED BY LAWYER SCOTT

MRS. GLOVER GUILTY ONE, DECLARES LAWYER SCOTT

"By a chain of circumstantial evidence we have shown a scheme on the part of Mrs. Glover to get the property of her husband.

"She would send into eternity the man she hated, and thereby profit by her inhuman deed.

"This will was procured by undue influence by an unprincipled, debased and wanton character.

"If Hattie Le Blanc were a party to the crime, then this woman, Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, shielded the murderer.

"She secreted her for three days in her house. She is an accessory after the fact, and she, too, is guilty of murder in the first degree!"

—From Lawyer Scott's argument in the Glover will contest.

Mrs. Lillian M. Glover feared to meet her husband as he lay dying in the hospital in Waltham n the evening of November 20, last, lest he would charge her with a serious crime, declared Lawyer John J. Scott to-day in his argument before Judge McIntire in East Cambridge for the contestants of the Glover will.

This and other starting accusations were made by Lawyer Scott in his address to show that there had been undue influence in the making of the will. Lawyers Gove and MacFarland followed with arguments along the same line and then Lawyer Elmore began his argument to try to convince the Court that the contestants had made no case.

"Hattie Le Blanc was Mrs. Glover's prisoner for three days," declared Lawyer Scott. "The only thing that Elmore showed by the cross-examination of Irene Le Blanc was that his own client (Mrs. Glover) was guilty of murder."

Scott charged that Seymour S. Glover was a deliberate perjurer, and that he had sealed his lips to save the "person who caused his brother to go into an early grave."

Scott asserted that the evidence showed that Mrs. Glover bought the revolver with which Glover was killed. He said that she exercised hypnotic, or some such power, on Mrs. Sampson, Hattie Le Blanc's aunt. He declared that Mrs. Glover lied whenever it suited her purpose. He averred that it was "her guilty conscience speaking" when she accounted for her time on the evening of the murder to the young man at the hospital.

"Mrs. Glover had her husband in her toils," said the lawyer," and she could dictate terms to him."

Estate Worth $46,000.

The selection of the County Commissioner's room for the hearing was not known to the throng of spectators, so there were none present at the opening but the lawyers and reporters.

Lawyer Scott commenced to talk at 9:55. He said:

"This will of Clarence F. Glover was made April 17, 1909. By it three-quarters of the estate goes to Mr. Elmore in trust, the income to Mrs. Glover, and also so much of the principal as Mr. Elmore sees fit to give. The rest goes to Seymour Glover. All the other brothers are cut off.

"The testimony introduced shows that the estate amounts to $40,000. (Mr. Elmore corrected this figure and said the amount was $46,000.) Seymour Glover is

LODGE FILES STORAGE BILL

WASHINGTON, April 7. — Senator Lodge, chairman of the committee investigating the cost of living, put up to the Senate to-day the question as to whether or not it desires to continue the inquiry, in order to obtain statistics up to date. Thus far the committee has obtained current prices of food products and information concerning wages, salaries and prices from government bureaus, up to 1908.

He submitted to the Senate a plan to carry on the inquiry and bring it up to date by means of a special committee to obtain statistics. This, he said, would cost $65,000 and take four months. Senator Lodge introduced a bill as the result of the food inquiry providing that perishable food supplies kept in cold storage for more than one year shall be regarded as adulterated; also that foods taken from cold storage and wrongfully labeled shall be regarded as misbranded.

FIFTY WOMEN HURT IN RIOTS

NEW YORK, April 7.—More than fifty women were more or less injured to-day, and fifteen were arrested during meat riots around Nos. 210 and 212 East One Hundred and Second street. About 3,000 women took part in the riot, and they were later joined by hundreds of school children.

The reserves were called out, and after they had stopped the rioting they arrested fifteen rioters. The trouble started when women in front of a kosher meat shop began taking meat away from customers, pouring kerosene over it and setting fire to it.

POPE IS SORRY OVER INCIDENT

ROME, April 7.—Some of the ecclesiastics who were received by the Pope to-day managed to introduce the subject of the Roosevelt incident. To these the Pontiff expressed deep regret that he had been prevented from meeting and speaking with the ex-President, but he gave utterance to no opinion regarding the negotiations or the deadlock that followed.

BUNCO STEERERS GET AWAY WITH $50

George Elvidge, stopping at the Hotel Haymarket, took a little walk today and met a stranger with whom he had a couple of drinks. Proceeding toward Adams square they met a second stranger, who wished to buy George a cigar. George, like a good fellow, however, proposed to match for the smokes. He did so, and soon found himself $50 shy of his original capital, whereupon, becoming a trifle suspicious, he reported the affair at station 2. The police are now looking for the bunco steerers.

LEAGUE OPPOSES SUNDAY BASEBALL

The Sabbath Protective League has taken a decided stand against the suggestion of the Park Commission relative to the use of playgrounds for sports on Sundays. The League believes that this is but a step toward the launching of a boom for Sunday baseball exhibitions by the two big leagues in this city. Rev. Dr. Martin D. Kneeland, secretary of this organization, stated that he was opposed to the commission's recommendation, as he understood it, at this time.

BIG ELECTRIC PLANT.

JACK JOHNSON IS SUED AGAIN

Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight prize fighter, may be called to Boston on May 2 next to fight a suit brought against him for $41.50 by "Pete" Walker to-day before Judge Parmenter. Walker alleges this amount of money is due him for training services given Johnson April 17, 1906. The case was continued until May 2 by order of Judge Parmenter. T. O. Grant appeared for Walker and Butler P. Wilson for Johnson. Although the amount of money at stake is small, it is declared Johnson will come to Boston to fight the case.

YALE GOES AGAINST GIANTS SATURDAY

NEW HAVEN, April 6.—Yale baseball men got together to-day for their final hard practice in preparation for their tough tryout Saturday against the N. Y. Giants on the latter's grounds. Coach Billy Lush is anxious to see his team under a fierce fire, in a game which is beyond their reach to win.

Yale has only two matches against professional nines this season, and they are next on the card of the Elis, against the National Leaguers, and next Wednesday in Hartford against the Connecticut League champions.

Captain Steve Philbin has sent word that he will join the Yale nine in New York city Saturday when he will see the game against the National Leaguers. He has been confined to the hospital in Atlantic City with a dislocated ankle. He played football three years without getting a scratch.

RUSSELL FRAUD IS CHARGED

Continuing his argument for Claimant No. 1 in the Russell will case at East Cambridge to-day, Senator Leslie A. Simpson of North Dakota flatly accused Eugene C. Upton, counsel for the Russell estate, of forgery.

He referred to William C. Russell with fierce sarcasm as "Simple-minded Willie." A moment later he declared:

"Either William C. Russell falsely testified or he is of not sufficient brain power."

He accused Sarah Almy of being the instrument by which the "[illegible]" letter got into the hands of Berry & Upton.

"It was by the hand," he said, "of Sarah Almy, in whose hands poor, old, simple William is as plastic as the clay that the modeller handles."

Lawyer Resorts to Invective.

Returning again to Upton, the Western Senator again indulged in invective, saying:

"Maybe Eugene C. Upton, whose face would give him thirty days in any court room West of the Mississippi, had a reason for obstructing Daniel Blake Russell."

Again he referred to Upton as "fearful that his own forgeries would be discovered."

He brought his references to Upton to a climax by declaring:

"Upton is so steeped in iniquity in the handling of these trust funds that, to escape punishment for his wicked acts, he would say anything."

Again and again the North Dakota counsel for Claimant No. 1 savagely arraigned his opponents. With language reminiscent of frontier oratory he attacked their deeds and impugned their motives. His language exceeded any used so far in this remarkable trial.

Surprise for Spectators.

It surprised even the most expectant of the crowd of spectators which jammed the court room to the last inch.

Attempts at applause were made at some

900 SAVED ON BURNING SHIP BY WIRELESS

LONDON, April 7.—Nine hundred passengers were transferred to-day from the burning steamer Cairnrona, to the Kanawha in the English Channel. Not a single mishap marked the transference of the crowds of men, women and children, and the incident stands out as one of the most daring and unusual of its kind in many years. It was another triumph for the wireless.

The Cairnrona was bound from London to Portland, Me. Soon after her departure it was found that her coal bunkers were afire and the blaze threatened to spread. Knowledge of the danger was kept from the passengers, and preparations were quietly made to take them off. An appeal for aid by wireless brought the Kanawha. The boats of both steamers were put into service and in a remarkably short time the change was made.

With every person safe, the vessel began a run against time for Dover.

The hatches of the Cairnrona were battened down and the fire fought as best it could be at sea. The steamer is owned by Cairns, Noble & Company of Newcastle, where she was built in 1904. Her tonnage is 3,900.

EMMANUEL "NERVE CURE" IS FAILURE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7. The Emmanuel movement, having to do with the treatment of mental trouble by religious suggestion and in which it was hoped an effective cure had been found for disorders of the nerve system, has proved a failure at St. Luke's Hospital. The psychopathic ward has been discarded and Rev. Dr. Albert B. Shields, formerly of Boston, the clerical superintendent, has sent in his resignation.

$25,000 ALIENATION SUIT AGAINST DOCTOR

NEW HAVEN, April 7. Walter A. French of Red Bank, N. J., today brought suit against Dr. Charles E. Froeulich of Hartford for $25,000 damages, attaching property owned by Dr. Froeulich. NATIONAL LEAGUE NINE SHAKEN UP BY TRAIN CRASH

Men Escape Serious Injury in Accident, but Engineer Was Killed and Fireman Seriously Injured—Ball Players Aid in Clearing Wreck.

By W. H. ROSS.

Special correspondent to the Boston American with the Boston National League Baseball Team.

CORBIN, Ky., April 7.—The Boston National baseball club had a thrilling experience shortly after midnight to-day, being in a train wreck one-fourth of a mile from Saxton, in which Engineer William Rudolph of Louisville & Nashville train 34 was instantly killed and Fireman A. T. Parker was badly injured.

None of the Boston ballplayers was hurt.

ALL OF TEAM WERE BADLY JOLTED IN SLEEPER.

The Doves left Knoxville for Louisville, where they were scheduled to play the Colonels this afternoon.

All were in their berths when the fast train on which they were passengers stopped with a terrific jolt. At the same instant they heard a crash. Every member of the party was badly jarred. Their heads crashed against the headboards of the berths and several are suffering from stiff necks. The Doves train had run into a freight which was partly on a siding and partly on the main track just south of Saxton.

Engineer Rudolph died game. He could have jumped and possibly saevd his life, but he struck to his post and put on the emergency brakes, being dragged from the wreckage dead.

Fireman Parker was found sitting beneath the remains of the tender, which was smashed to bits. He was dazed, but not thinking of himself, "Where's Bill?" he muttered. He was taken into a Pullman and laid in a berth. Conductor Thompson rushed through the train shouting in each car, "Is there a doctor here?" Netx to the last car he found Dr. Leon Martel, now first sacker for the Doves. Dr. Martel was one of the staff of the Boston Relief Hospital last Winter. He had his emergency kit with him.

For hours while the train was held for a clear track he worked over the injured fireman, who was in a critical condition. Five doctors from Jellico came down to Saxton on a locomotive to lend their aid.

The dead engineer lived in Corbin, where he is survived by a widow and one child. It was the end of his run and in thirty-five minutes, but for the wreck, he would have been at home with his family. His train was due in Saxton at 1:19.

It was just 1:21 when the crash came, andh e was running his train at the rate of fifty miles an hour to make up time when the headlight flashed on a string of coal cars across the main track. It was jump or die for him. Had he jumped the passengers in the day coach and five Pullmans, more than one hundred all told, might have gone to eternity.

MAYOR ORDERS PARKS CLOSED TO AUTO CARS

Stirred by the stand of the State Highway Commission against giving the roadways of Boston's parks any part of the $300,000 collected annually for automobile fees, Mayor Fitzgerald today instructed the Boston Park Commission to close all the roadways under their control to motor vehicle travel.

Carried out to the letter, the Mayor's order owuld close Commonwealth avenue to automobiles from Arlington street to the Fenway.

The Mayor followed this letter with another to the Metropolitan Park Board, suggesting a similar course.

Under the law the action suggested by the Mayor must be approved by the State Highway Commission, whose apparently hostile course toward Boston led to the stand of the Mayor.

Mr. Fitzgerald has been urging in the Legislature that 25 per cent. of the automobile fees be given to the Boston Park Board and 25 per cent. to the Metropolitan Park Board. The State Highway Commission insists upon keeping all.

VAHEY NOW SAYS HE MUST BE CONVINCED

James H. Vahey will issue a statement to-morrow relative to his attitude on the attempt by Mayor Fitzgerald and others to induce him to say that he will not be a candidate this Fall for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

He intended to issue the statement today, but was called to Lawrence to try a case in court and was too busy to do so. He says the declaration that he will make to-morrow will leave no doubt of his position so far as another nomination is concerned.

It may be said that he will not withdraw from the field simply to please Mayor Fitzgerald, and will run again unless he can be convincingly shown by men who have no axes to grind that success of the ticket would be promoted by his stepping aside.

WIFE, M. D., DIVORCED FROM HUSBAND, M. D.

Mrs. Lucy B. Hall, a well-known physician of Hyde Park was to-day granted a decree of divorce from Dr. Frederick A. Hall, by Judge Hitchcock in the Norfolk County Superior Court, Divorce Session, in Dedham, on the grounds of desertion. Mrs. Hall was given the custody of her ten-year-old son, Frederick C. and allowed $12 a month for his suport. She said the doctor left here when she chided him because of a servant. She testified that afterwards sh had trid to become reconciled with her husband but that she could never induce him to live with her again.

MRS. GLOVER WAS AFRAID HER DYING HUSBAND WOULD ACCUSE HER, DECLARES LAWYER SCOTT

given $10,000. The balance is given to Mr. Elmore in trust. The question now comes whether this will was made by reason of undue influence on the part of Lillian M. Glover. In going back over this case, we find that the negotiations for the will began in January, 1909, and continued for three months until April 17, when it was executed.

Reviews the Witnesses.

"Let us consider the witnesses to this will. Mr. Higgins was called in. He knew nothing of the contents of the will or anything regarding its preparation. He is disposed of. Another witness is Mrs. Elmore, wife of one of the attorneys. She was a little confused. Her testimony shows that she did not know whether she signed before or after Mr. Glover.

"Another witness was one Tupper, Mr. Elmore's partner, who has played an important role in this entire case and who has shown more interest than the ordinary witness. He was the one who secured affidavits as to the killing. He was on guard at the Glover home while Hattie was a prisoner in the Glover house. The last witness was Mr. Elmore himself, a beneficiary, who takes legal title to over $30,000 of the estate.

"Undue influence can be shown by either direct or circumstantial evidence. In this case we have both. The question for Your Honor to decide is whether undue influence was exerted. It is essential first of all to establish the relations between the parties. What then was the feeling of Mrs. Glover to Glover?

"This brings us to the incident of March 29. We have Mrs. Glover's own story. That is all the testimony as to that specific act. She says that she was ill and that Hattie and Mr. Glover were down stairs. She says that the circumstances were strange and that she went down stairs and found them.

Declares Mrs. Glover Bought Pistol.

"The next day Mrs. Glover went to see Mrs. Sampson and told her of the trouble. What did she say to Mrs. Sampson? She said that she had no revolver, but that she would buy one and shoot him, meaning Mr. Glover.

"The next important link is the purchase of the revolver. The testimony of salesman Coffey shows beyond a question that he sold a revolver to a woman; that that woman was Mrs. Glover and that the revolver was the one now in the possession of the Waltham police. I hold in my hand a sales slip for the sale of a revolver numbered 216622. It is the same number that is on the revolver held by the police. This revolver was traced by counsel for the contestants. It was shown by them that it had been manufactured by Smith & Wesson, sold by them to Iver-Johnson Company and then sold by Coffey to a woman.

"Coffey tells of a long interview he had with this woman and how she asked to be shown 22, 32 and 38-calibre revolvers. This woman was told by Coffey that a 38 would be more sure of action; and the 38 was sure of action, as was demonstrated later.

"There were many circumstances connected with that sale that impressed itself on Coffey's mind. The boys joked with him about the woman and he himself said she was a little "fly." He didn't know this woman's name, but can Your Honor doubt that the woman was not Hattie, but could be no other than Mrs. Glover?

"I'll Show Her a Revolver."

"We can now further follow the movements of Mrs. Glover. She visited the home of Mrs. Sampson and wanted her to hear Hattie's confession. When she asked Mrs. Sampson if Hattie had confessed and Mrs. Sampson said 'No,' she said she was surprised. What do we find? Mrs. Sampson, under hypnotic influence, or something akin to that, put on her clothes and went out with Mrs. Glover. Mrs. Glover said, 'I'll make her confess. If she does not confess, I'll show her a revolver.' Mrs. Sampson replied, 'Don't show a revolver; I'll be afraid.' This shows that Mrs. Glover had a revolver then, and that it was the same revolver which was purchased on March 31.

"Mr. Elmore confronted witness Coffey with a strange man and that man has passed out of existence, because of Mrs. Glover's own story that Mr. Glover himself purchased the revolver.

"All this goes to show the feeling of Mrs. Glover toward her husband. We now come to another important point. On the Sunday before November 20, Irene Le Blanc visited Mrs. Glover and some notes were shown her. One of these reads, 'I do not love him. I never loved him. I always hated him. He was never to my taste. I can do without him.' Irene saw the note, and, although she did not understand English, the note was interpreted to her by Mrs. Glover. Following this chain along, we come to the box of candy, on which was written, 'Go to h——.' All of this evidence is corroborated by Lillian.

Go to H——" Message.

"My brother Mr. Elmore brought in the box department of a confectionery store in order to confuse Lillian Le Blanc in regard to the kind of candy box upon which she saw the message 'Go to hell.' Yet her testimony was not jarred or changed in any particular, because she was telling the absolute truth.

"Then we have in evidence the message which Mrs. Glover wrote and put under her husband's plate, namely, 'Don't come down to dinner or I'll fix you.' Does that show affection? If it does, I will leave it for my brother Mr. Elmore to explain. Mrs. Glover told this child Lillian that she never loved her husband.

"We have three different notes, all testified to by Irene, and Lillian didn't see any one of them. Lillian did not see any of those notes, but she did see the message on the box of candy. Those notes show an entire lack of affection on Mrs. Glover's part toward her husband. Lillian Le Blanc testified that when Mrs. Glover asked her if she and Irene were sisters of Hattie, Mrs. Glover spoke to her in French, telling her to tell Mr. Glover 'No.'

"That shows just what kind of a woman Mrs. Glover is. When it served her purpose to lie, she lied, and when it served her convenience to tell the truth, she tells the truth.

"Then take the bottle of wine incident. Your Honor will remember what Mrs. Glover told her husband what he could do with it. A remark too vulgar to be testified to in open court. Did that show affection on Mrs. Glover's part toward her husband?

"Now we will take the night when Mr. Glover lay dying at the hospital. Mrs. Glover was told that her husband was dying and she was asked if she wanted to see him. What did she say? She said that she was not able to, because she had once had an operation and that the sight of blood affected her. Now it is a well-known fact that when a person has an operation they are placed under ether and they never feel any pain during the operation and they never see any blood. And yet that is the excuse which Mrs. Glover gave for not going to see her husband who lay dying upstairs.

"She talked downstairs with a young man about her trip to the football game that afternoon, and she told him everything that occurred after the football game. She went to the extent of telling this young man that her husband didn't want coffee for supper that night, but that he preferred a bottle of beer, and she went on and on, and spoke to this young man about all sorts of trivial things. She told him how long it took her to get a certain party on the telephone and she told about telephoning a certain party, and all this time while she calmly talked her husband lay dying upstairs.

"Now, why did she talk about these things with this young man downstairs? The reason is that she was accounting for all her time that night. And why? She hadn't been accused of anything at that time.

"Your Honor, the reason is that a guilty consiecence was speaking there and she said to herself, 'I will account for all of my time so that I won't be implicated in this matter.'

Declares She Feared Accusation.

"My brother, Mr. Elmore, asked one of the witnesses whether Mrs. Glover at that time showed resentment. She didn't show resentment; she didn't say anything about it, but her actions showed it. She did not say, 'I don't want to go and see my husband because I am bitter against him for having paid attention to my servant again.' If she had, her action may be explained. No. The reason was that she feared to meet him.

"She didn't dare to meet him as he lay up stairs dying, because she feared that he would charge her with a serious crime.

"Her actions that night showed an intense bitter hatred toward him, and hatred does not beget love.

"Now what was the feeling of Mr. Glover toward her? It is true that he wrote a few postal cards to her which were signed "with love.' But he never wrote any letters which have been offered in evidence to show that he used terms of affection while writing to her. If either wrote such letters to the other, they would have been placed in evidence.

"My brother Mr. Elmore may make a great deal of that little phrase 'with love,' which appears on the postal cards, but what else could Mr. Glover have writen on them?

"Will She Shoot Me?"

"It would have been very distasteful for him to have signed them, 'yours truly,' or 'yours respectfully,' when he knew they were going through the mail very openly. There is nothing in the body of any of those postal cards to show affection. He was merely reporting to her where he was. If Mr. Glover had any affection for his wife he would have seen her on the night that he lay dying.

"He was asked if he wanted to see her as he lay on his dying bed, and knowing his serious condition, and what did he say? He said 'No,' every time Dr. McDonald asked him. Finally he said 'Yes,' and then he added, 'Will she shoot me?' Does that show affection on Glover's part toward his wife? I will ask counsel for the other side to explain how it shows affection.

"Mr. Elmore asked Dr. McDonald if he might not be mistaken, and if Mr. Glover might not have said to him, 'Will she scold me?' Dr. McDonald answered, 'No; his exact words were, "Will she shoot me?"' Mr. Elmore knows how vital that statement is. They went to see Dr. McDonald and got a statement from him while Mr. Glover's body was still warm; and if anything different could be shown they would have produced it.

"Detective Blackmore testified that last April, shortly before the will was made, Mr. Glover met him at the Hotel Touraine and sought to employ him, saying that it was a case of 'State's prison, a bullet or signing away his rights.'

Had Glover in Her Power.

"At that time Mr. Glover wanted to secure information against his wife. It shows that she must have threatened him, and on the testimony of Seymour Glover, one of the interested parties, she had threatened divorce. She had consulted a lawyer, and she knew that if her husband were guilty of the wrong she had charged, it did mean State prison for him if she wanted to press the charge.

"What was the feeling of Mrs. Glover toward the brothers of her husband? Seymour Glover says that Mrs. Lillian Glover said that the Glover brothers were all blacklegs, crooks, thieves and drunkards. And if she said that about them, she hated them and determined to shut them off in her husband's will, and she was to reap all the benefits.

"It is true that Clarence's attitude toward his brothers was somewhat restricted, but that was because of his wife's feeling toward them. All the testimony shows that Clarence had an intense brotherly feeling toward them—all the testimony except the hissing by this serpent and the testimony of Seymour, who is intoxicated by the flicker of a little gold.

"On the 29th day of March, 1909, when Mrs. Glover says she caught her husband and Hattie Le Blanc, Mrs. Glover had her husband in her toils. She knew that if she wanted anything she could dictate the terms.

Was Going to Buy Revolver.

"Now on the question of fear on the part of Mr. Glover toward his wife. Two days after this bathroom incident Mrs. Glover bought a revolver. Is there any doubt but what she threatened him? What was her object in buying that revolver? Mrs. Sampson has testified that about that time Mrs. Glover told her that she was going to buy a revolver for use against her husband. In the early part of April last Glover saw Detective Blackmore. Mrs. Glover had the revolver at that time.

"Isn't it reasonable to suppose that, knowing that she had this revolver, he said, "I will be shot if I don't make this will," or "I will go to jail." It took seven days to effect a reconciliation after Mrs. Glover had caught Mr. Glover and Hattie, and it is a very strange thing that this will was made just a few days later. I say that it is a strange occurrence that it should be drawn at that time, drawn to the satisfaction of Mrs. Glover. And for her to come in here and say that she knew nothing about it seems ridiculous.

"It has been demonstrated time and time again that Mrs. Glover has lied in this matter. She is incapable of telling the truth unless it serves her purpose. Mr. Glover's interview with Detective Blackmore shows that he signed this will because he feared to do otherwise. Mr. Glover's statement on his dying bed, "Will she shoot me?" referring to his wife, shows that he dreaded her. There is no question but what Seymour Glover is anxious to help out his friend, Lillian M. Glover, in regard to the revolver which she purchased on March 31.

Calls Seymour Perjurer.

"That is the only revolver of that type that there was, and when we pinned Seymour Glover down in regard to it he squirmed like the notorious falsifier that he is. His testimony regarding the revolvers shows that he is a deliberate perjurer and that the price he paid was the sealing of his lips, for if he spoke it would have opened the gates and brought a flood of disaster to the person who caused his brother to go into an early grave.

"Does the evidence show a love affection between husband and wife? Does it show that their life was one sweet dream? No, it shows there was absolutely no affection between Clarence F. Glover and Mrs. Lillian M. Glover.

"Seymour Glover is one of the important features in this case. Not only did he show an utter disregard of the truth, but he was an extremely cautious witness. His lips were sealed. He realized that if he told the truth there would be an end of it in a short time. What was the attitude of Mrs. Glover to the supposed murderer of her husband?

"Hattie Was a Prisoner."

"For three days Hattie was her prisoner in the Glover home. It appears from the testimony of Irene that she ate her meals there, and the only thing that Mr. Elmore showed on cross-examination of this little girl was that his own client was guilty of murder.

"Irene was told by her sister Hattie that Mrs. Glover killed Glover. When Glover was asked who killed him he did not say a girl. He said a woman. He saw no motive for Hattie's killing him. On his death bed Clarence F. Glover had his mind's eye on the person who brought about his death. He realized that he had been forced to make a will in favor of Lillian Glover. He knew of the threats made to shoot him and he knew that his death would cause the property to pass to his wife.

"Elmore tries to show a solicitude for this little girl, Hattie Le Blanc, by trying to smirch her character and by making the statement that Glover met death at her hand. This poor little girl, speaking in a strange tongue, a stranger in a foreign land, is the victim of a treacherous fiend. He would have it go out to the world that there was a motive for Hattie killing Glover. Glover couldn't see any motive. Yet here we see Lillian M. Glover's adviser in a wonderful exhibition, telling us that there was a motive why this girl shot her employer. If the testimony of Mrs. Sampson is true, Mrs. Glover lies. If the testimony of Lillian is to be believed, she again lies. If the testimony of Irene is true, she is again a falsifier. If the testimony of Seymour is to be believed, Mrs. Glover is a liar.

Attacks Stories of Both.

"Mrs. Glover, when asked if she said anything about his father and mother, said 'No.' Seymour said she did and that he 'felt like splitting her head open.' It is indeed a most difficult task to tell which is telling the truth, Seymour or Mrs. Glover. If Seymour's story is true, Mrs. Glover defamed the dead. If his story is true he was endeavoring to shield her, and in so doing smirched the memory of his dead parents. Furthermore, if the testimony of Seymour is to be believed, Mrs. Glover is an unmitigated liar. Seymour's testimony about the revolver shows that he is not to be believed. He has staggered under a dream of wealth.

"He has lost his equilibrium. I quote the words of a noted jurist that apply to Seymour. "He is constitutionally unable to tell the truth." They may say that Irene is a perjurer, that Lillian did not tell the truth, that Stanley and Blackmore and Dr. McDonald did not tell a straight story, but in no way have they impeached the testimony of these witnesses. Their testimony remains unshaken. They have rested their case. Why? Because they are unable to meet the case of the contestants. Seymour and Mrs. Glover are silent because no one will come forward to speak a word for them. If they put in a case, it would be of the flimsiest kind.

"By a chain of circumstantial evidence we have shown a scheme on the part of Mrs. Glover to get the property of her husband. She would send into eternity the man she hated and thereby profit by her inhuman deed. This will was procured by undue influence, by an unprincipled, debased and wanton character. If Hattie LeBlanc were a party to the crime, then this woman, Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, shielded the murderer. She secreted her for three days in her house. She is an accessory after the fact, and she, too, is guilty of murder in the first degree!"

Attorney Scott finished at 10:45 o'clock and Lawyer MacFarland then commenced.

MacFarland's Argument.

Lawyer MacFarland said:

"The statement of Mr. Glover upon his dying bed, 'Will she shoot me,' showed that, although doctors and nurses were about him, he feared his wife would attack him, attempt his life again, perhaps. No explanation has been offered by Mr. Elmore why Mrs. Glover did not want to see her husband when he was dying and why he did not want to see her. There is only one explanation, and that is that Mr. Glover had good reason to believe that his wife would shoot him."

Attorney Gove said:

"When Glover drew that will he told Elmore what somebody else had told him to say. He didn't dare to let his own counsel know what his heart was.

"Coming down to November, the time of the tragedy. This child, who was said to have tempted this man, was taken to a football game in the Glover automobile. She was put forward as a man and woman would put their daughter before the public. They returned from the football game home. Everything was quiet, and this girl, this child, made an appointment to meet Mr. Glover at the laundry that night. Is it a natural thing? Is it a reasonable thing?

"Girl Told to Go."

"If that was done, she did it not of her own volition, but because she was directed. Your Honor knows that children of the age of this girl, coming hundreds of miles to a strange country, illiterate, not acquainted with the language, do as they are told, know no better, in fact there is nothing else for them to do. Now, if, as the evidence has been offered to show, she asked Clarence F. Glover to meet he rat the laundry that night, she was told to do it.

"But he went there. A part of what occurred there is conjecture. But from the evidence it is apparent that somebody else was in that laundry, who knew in advance that that child was going to be there.

"Why did Mrs. Glover when she went to the hospital pay so much attention to all other matters except that pertaining to her husband's death? It was for the same reason that Mr. Tupper on the following Saturday secured evidence to defend a person from murder. She was getting in before she was charged with anything. She was preparing an alibi for the public before anyone thought an alibi was necessary.

"I feel that in presenting this case we have presented an argument so strong that it has convinced everyone who has heard it that Glover made this will under influence that he could not possibly get away from. He would not have made this will if he had been left to himself, but he did not dare to do anything different. I submit that your honor should find these facts to be true and that the will be refused probate."

Court adjourned at this point until 2 o'clock. At that ti emMr. Elmore began his reply to the objectors.

ENCAMPMENT OF VETERANS COMES TO END

With the hotly contested elections by the Sons of Veterans, the reception to Governor Draper, Mayor Fitzgerald and other guests by the Civil War Veterans at the American House, and a banquet at the American House and receptions by the women's organizations, the forty-fourth annual encampment of the Massachusetts G. A. R. came to an end to-day.

The Sons of Veterans met in Lorimer Hall, Tremont Temple. The elections of officers for the coming year took up most of the afternoon and brought this meeting to a close.

A brilliant reception was held by the veterans at the American House this afternoon. Guests from out of town received with the Governor and the Mayor.

At the banquet following the reception the chief speaker was Commander-in-Chief Samuel R. Van Sant of Minnesota, head of the nation's Civil War veterans. Following the banquet the commander-in-chief installed the officers elected yesterday, headed by Commander J. Willard Brown.

At the business meeting to-day a resolution that the department purchase for $10,000 Darius Cobb's painting, "The Last Review," a Civil War allegorical study, was turned down. Past Commander Alfred S. Roe of Worcester said that the department should find out first if the Governor and the Legislature would permit the painting to hang in the State House if it were purchased. The matter was finally sent to a committee.

The newly elected commander, J. Willard Brown, to-day announced the following appointments on his staff: Assistant adjutant general, S. H. De Woolf; quartermaster general, Daniel Eldridge; inspector general, R. V. Chute, and judge advocate general, C. W. Wood.

ONE G. A. R. MAN IS DYING EVERY FOURTEEN MINUTES

A touching reference to the ever-faster thinning ranks of the G. A. R. was contained in the report of Medical Director Henry James Millard, who said:

"We can scarcely realize how rapidly our comrades are summoned to answer the final roll call—one every fourteen minutes, or nearly 40,000 a year. It makes us wonder at what date the last survivor will be called to join the mighty host that have gone before."

Referring to the same subject, Department Commander John L. Parker said in his report:

"The membership of the department is 13,494—a falling off from the totals of the last report of 721. The death rate has increased from 742 in 1908 to 836 in 1909. We cannot change the laws of nature, and each year must inevitably see the roll of honor increasing."

'Venus With the Mirror' Declared to Be Velasquez.

LONDON—The famous "Venus with the Mirror," also known as the Rokeby Venus, which cost $225,000, has been found to be a genuine Velasquez by the committee of experts named to examine it. The picture has hung in the National Gallery since 1906. It was recently charged that some of the paint was of a kind unknown in the time of Velasquez.

American Artist Wore Crown.

PARIS—Edgar MacAdams, a sculptor of Pittsburg, Pa., was fined $40 and sentenced to six months' imprisonment for resisting a gendarme. The sentence of imprisonment was suspended during good conduct. MacAdams attended a ball given by painters and sculptors and became involved in a quarrel. He kicked the policeman, disabling him so that he had to lay off for twenty days. When he was taken to the police station following the fight he wore only a crown and a pair of socks. He said he had gone to the ball costumed as an ancient Roman, but lost the rest in the fight.

Prof. Lowell Lectures in Paris.

PARIS—Professor Percival Lowell of Boston lectured last night at the annual meeting of the Astronomical Society of France, explaining, by the aid of lantern slides, his discoveries in connection with the canals of Mars. Fifteen hundred persons were present, including all the best known astronomers and scientists of this country, who loudly applauded the speaker. They appeared greatly impressed and warmly congratulated Professor Lowell, who spoke in French.

Czarina Restored to Health.

ST. PETERSBURG—Empress Alexandra furnished the best possible refutation of the recent reports that she was in serious ill health when she received American Ambassador W. W. Rockhill yesterday. If one may judge from appearances, Her Majesty has fully recovered her normal condition. The audience marked the resumption of the social life of the court in full vigor, which had been suspended, practically, since the war with Japan.

Etna's Crater Collapses.

CATANIA, Sicily—Mount Etna is again busy. Parts of the central crater collapsed to-day. Lava is pouring down in immense furrows on all sides, illuminating the cone at night. The incandescent streams are several miles in length. The lava is spreading new destruction in the neighborhood of Cysterna.

Sang to King; Barred by Pope.

LONDON—A dispatch from Rome says an echo of the Vatican-Roosevelt incident occurred when a German choral society was giving a concert before the Pope. The singers appeared, but upon an order issued by Merry del Val were refused permission to sing because they sang before the King and Queen.

Fatal Duel Between Frenchmen.

PARIS—A fatal duel was fought to-day at Algiers between two candidates for the Chamber of Deputies, according to dispatches received here. M. Hoube shot and killed M. Robert. They went to Africa especially for the affray. Newspaper recrimination led to the duel.

New Parliamentary Sex.

PARIS—For the first time the United Socialists have nominated two women candidates officially. They are Madeleine Pelletier, in the Quarter de l'Europe, Paris, and Marie Bonneville, in Isere, candidates for election to the Chamber of Deputies.

REBELLIOUS TURKS SEIZE A GOVERNOR

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 7.—The Albanian revolutionists in a sharp fight have defeated and captured the Turkish troops sent to punish them, according to dispatches received to-day.

The revolt is growing and the Turkish government is warned. It was decided to-day to rush further reinforcements to the scene of trouble. The Turkish troops were surrounded by the insurgents and, after being forced to surrender, were disarmed. Their arms and ammunition were distributed among the rebels, whose position is now much stronger.

They have captured the Governor of Prizriend and are holding him hostage, it is reported.

SEARCHING FOR MISSING BOY

While his father is searching frantically all over the city for thirteen-year-old George A. Doyle, who disappeared while on his way to visit him Tuesday evening at the Bowdoin Square Tabernacle, his mother waits patiently at his home, No. 14 Sarsfield street, Roxbury, for news that he has been found. When he disappeared the boy wore a brown suit, white tie and collar and black shoes and stockings. He has dark hair and blue eyes and had a scar over the right temple and one other scar on his right hand.

ALTON B. PARKER MEETS M. STOLYPIN

ST. PETERSBURG, April 7.—Alton B. Parker, former chief justice of the New York Court of Appeals, left here to-day for Moscow and the Crimea. Judge Parker had an audience with Premier Stolypin before his departure, in which they discussed the possibility of closer relations between Russia and the United States.

RHEUMATISM ADVICE

Gives Prominent Doctor's Best Prescription—Is Easily Mixed.

"Get one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound and one ounce of Toris compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using." This is not new to this city, as many of the worst cases of chronic and acute rheumatism and backache have been cured by it. Good results come the first day. Any druggist has these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house.

$25 IN PRIZES IN "TEN BEST NOVELS" CONTEST! WHAT ARE YOUR IDEAS?

HAVE you joined the thousands of BOSTON AMERICAN readers who are discussing which are the ten greatest novels in the AMERICAN'S latest prize contest?

Here is the proposition:

WHICH ARE THE TEN BEST AND GREATEST NOVELS?

The idea is not which are the most amusing, which are the so-called "best sellers," but which ten books convey in the form of an interesting story the greatest amount of useful information, and at the same time provoke in the reader the greatest amount of useful thought.

$25 in Prizes.

Send in your list of the ten greatest novels, the ten that do most to interest, to cheer the lives of those that read them, and at the same time convey useful information, and stir up useful, noble thought.

For the best list the American will give a prize of $10; for the next best a prize of $5, and for the next ten prizes of $1 each. The winning lists will be adjudged by a committee of Boston literary people.

He has brought suits of $50,000 each against J. Frank Howland of Commonwealth avenue, adopted father of Mrs. Foster, and Volney J. Jacobs, formerly a chauffeur in the Howland family. He alleges a conspiracy to deprive him of Mrs. Foster's affections.

The Fosters were married last January after a New Year's celebration. The ceremony was performed by a justice of the peace. Few knew of the marriage until eighteen days later when Mrs. Foster filed in the Superior Court a petition to have the ceremony annulled. She alleged that at the time of the marriage she was "so much intoxicated and overcome by the effects of an opiate or other drug as to deprive her of all sense of volition and to render her incapable of knowing what she was then doing," and that she "did not willingly or knowingly enter into said contract of marriage and that it was not her free act and deed." Her suit is pending.

Mrs. Foster, then Miss Howland, an attractive Commonwealth avenue belle, was sued in 1907 by Mrs. Grace Jacobs of Revere, who alleged alienation of the affections of Volney J. Jacobs. The case, it is said, was settled out of court.

FIFTY GIRLS IN DOWNTOWN FIRE PANIC

Fifty girls were aided from a burning building at No. 8 Atlantic avenue just after 9 o'clock this morning. They were at work on the second and third floors of the building which is occupied as a mattress and couch factory by T. W. Sammett & Co.

A panic started among the girls when the fire was first discovered. Miss Helen Quinlan, a forewoman, and Miss May Wilson, one of the girls under her, remained calm in spite of the excitement. They led the other fifty girls to safety.

The fire started on the second floor. This is used as the wool room. It burned its way to the floor above, where the most of the damage was done. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars.

The cause of the fire is not known. The girls were all at work when somebody screamed "fire." A stampede for the stairs and exits followed. Miss Quinlan and Miss Wilson calmed them so that none were injured in the rush from the building.

CASE WAS DISMISSED.

Judge Richardson of the Superior Court today dismissed the bill brought against the Telegraphers' Trading and Loan Company by William R. Ryan and other minority stockholders, who sought to have set aside the action of the company in voting shares of stock to Allen Woodle and Charles A. Richardson. The judge found no evidence to warrant the action and dismissed the bill with costs without hearing the defence.

KING EDWARD SERIOUSLY ILL

GENOA, April 7.—It is understood here that the King of England is so seriously ill that only a Mediterranean cruise will help him. His old throat trouble is said to be bothering him seriously and his stay at Biarritz has done him little good. It was announced to-day that, accompanied by Queen Alexandra, he will sail on the royal yacht from here on April 20, for a cruise in Italian, Greek and African waters.

PATTEN OPENS BIG FIGHT TO RULE COTTON

NEW YORK, April 7.—A terrific battle for control of the cotton market is imminent. James A. Patten, the famous Chicago wheat and cotton speculator, who rushed into New York on the eighteen-hour train clad in his war regalia, said to-day that he was here for a "fight to a finish with McFadden."

Twenty-cent cotton is predicted as a result of the contest.

The McFadden that Patten referred to is George H. McFadden, head of the firm of George F. McFadden & Brother, the biggest cotton brokerage house in the world, which has been active in the violent agitation in the cotton market for the past three days.

Mr. Patten was recently mobbed at Manchester when he visited the cotton exchange on his visit to England. Mr. Patten was found in the lobby of the Waldorf-Astoria with two friends whom he introduced as Mr. Haynes and Mr. Brown, cotton brokerse from New Orleans and his allies in the fight on McFadden.

It had been reported that he had lost more than a million dollars in the recent slump when the price of cotton dropped off $2.50 a bale. He was asked about this report.

"What's a Million to Me?"

"Losing!" exclaimed the speculator. "A million? Why, I don't really know. I'm not losing any sleep, anyway. Make it a million and a half or two million, if you want to. Losing two million in this sort of a fight is no more to me than losing a dime would be to you. When a man has as much cotton going and coming as I have he hasn't time to figure up how every little fluctuation of the price affects his profits.

"I never even take the time to figure up approximately at night how the day's operations have resulted for my bank account. It isn't worth while. A man that makes speculating a business hasn't the time and can't afford to bother with trifles like these," continued Mr. Patten on the subject of a loss of a million or so. "If one allows things like that to worry him he hasn't any right to speculate.

"If speculating ever cost me an hour's sleep, I would cut the whole business out and go to work in somebody's office for a salary."

The cotton king was then asked about his coming campaign on the New York Exchange.

"The whole trouble here has been that McFadden has run the market. Every time he says 'boo' all of these fellows jump out of the market scared to death. He's up against a different sort of a proposition now. He's got to fight a live one. He can't scare me.

Not at All Alarmed.

"He's shipping cotton in here from England at a loss of $4 a bale and all of the small fry are frightened to death.

"They figure that they haven't a chance to fight him. That sort of business doesn't alarm me. I can stand to watch him sell cotton at a loss of $4 a bale as long as he wants to sell it.

"Most of these men who have timidly opposed him before this are a lot of children. They are scared out by phantoms. He tried this sort of game on these gentlemen—indicating his two friends—some time ago and he didn't come out of it very successfully and he is up against the proposition of coming out with less success this time.

"You can go and bet that this much is true," continued Mr. Patten. "I have not lost a cent in the cotton market and I'm not going to.

"I have got plenty of cotton that I bought at nine and you can figure from that that a jump to fourteen and back again to twelve doesn't affect me much. No, I'm not beginning to get scared yet.

"These manoeuvres of McFadden will drive all of the timid out of the market if they are not out now, and I'm glad of it. All I want is a clear field to meet this fellow on."

SHERMAN INVITED TO ATTEND ARCANUM

WORCESTER, April 7.—Vice-President Sherman was invited by letter to-day to attend the convention of the Massachusetts Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum, which is to be held in this city on April 28 and 29. KILLED BY TROLLEY CAR IN BROCKTON

BROCKTON, April 7.—Harris C. Poole, secretary of the Skivers local of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, was killed by an electric car to-day in front of his home, 203 North Main street. Mrs. Poole was an eyewitness of her husband's death. He had just left his home and was crossing the street to take an electric car when a Mattapan car, going fast, and concealed by the other car, struck Mr. Poole. He was dragged fully seventy-five feet before the car could be stopped. His body was horribly mangled. He was unconscious, but still alive when taken from under the car, but died in a few minutes at the Central Hospital. Deceased was forty years old and was employed by the Brockton Co-operative Shoe Company.

PLAIN SHAFT MARKS CLEVELAND GRAVE

PRINCETON, N. J., April 6.—With no mention in the inscription of the fact that he was President of the United States, but reading merely: "Grover Cleveland, born Caldwell, N. J., March 18, 1837, died Princeton, N. J., June 24, 1908," the first monument to the memory of ex-President Grover Cleveland has been completed on his grave in the Princeton Cemetery. Beside it at the same time was placed a marble slab three feet high, on the grave of Ruth Cleveland, which has remained unmarked since her death, January 7, 1904. It, too, bears a simple inscription.

PAINTERS' ORGANIZER ARRIVES IN BOSTON

With forty of the seventy members of East Boston Painters' Union still on strike, following the refusal of their employers to pay the new wage scale which went into effect Monday, Edward Cummings of Providence, general organizer of the union, came to Boston to-day and at once assumed charge of affairs in the tunnel-outlet district. Full financial support of the East Boston strikers, Mr. Cummings states, is assured from the International Union. The men are asking a weekly minimum of $20 for house painters and $22.20 for decorators. They work a forty-four-hour week, and formerly received $18.04 and $20.24. The master painters in the city proper have granted the increase, putting 1,150 men, members of Union No. 11, to work at the advanced wage.

MERRY DEL VAL MAKES NEW EXPLANATION OF ROOSEVELT INCIDENT

ROME, April 7.—Cardinal Merry del Val, papal secretary of state, through Rev. Thomas Kennedy, rector of the American College, gives the following version of the Roosevelt-Vatican incident:

"In the last analysis it is a question of simple, pure courtesy. The Holy See did not impose on Mr. Roosevelt, as has been falsely stated, a condition that he must not approach the Methodists or other non-Catholic religious associations in Rome.

"There are several non-Catholic centres in the city, which, however, do not behave in a harshly hostile and offensive manner toward the Pope and everything the Pope and all Catholics hold most dear.

"The Methodist centre in the Via Venti Settembre is, instead, systematically united with the worst anti-clerical and anti-papal elements in the city, and displays such attitude in the most notorious manner and in the most aggressive and insulting form.

"Mr. Roosevelt himself had a slight limited sample of this in the declaration published recently by the Methodists which he felt obliged to disavow.

"The Holy See after the regrettable Fairbanks incident had every reason to fear that Mr. Roosevelt, unwittingly and in perfect good faith, would have been led to manifest open sympathy and friendship toward this hostile centre of aggression against the Catholic Church in the very heart of the Catholic world.

"Therefore when Mr. Roosevelt requested indirectly and confidentially an audience of His Holiness, the hope was courteously expressed that he would be guarded against being dragged into the false position of seemingly publicly supporting the offensive campaign against the Pope within his own See.

"Mr. Roosevelt replied by refusing any condition or stipulation, thus admitting the possibility of his accomplishing an action which would be a grave offence to His Holiness. This was amply confirmed by the refusal to give any assurance. An audience thus became impossible.

"Therefore it was a question of pure, ordinary courtesy, and surely courtesy is not incompatible with the rights and freedom of an American citizen."

ROOSEVELTS NOW TRAVELING OVER HONEYMOON ROUTE

SPEZIA, Italy, April 7.—A new Theodore Roosevelt arrived here to-day. It was not the leader of men and the international personage that stepped from the Rome express with his wife—it was the bridegroom. Casting aside grave problems, Mr. Roosevelt gave himself up to the sentimental journey along the Riviera, following the course he and his bride took twenty-three years ago.

No bride and bridegroom could have been more blithe than the former President and his wife, when they took their first view of the gay Gulf of Genoa. They managed, with a bit of manoeuvring, to evade expectant crowds, and began their period of enjoyment in isolation.

Privacy Is Much Enjoyed.

The Roosevelts went to a hotel for breakfast and then gave themselves up for a while to sightseeing. In spite of the great curiosity among the tourists and health seekers here, their known desire to be left alone gave them much more privacy than they had enjoyed since meeting in Africa.

Mr. Roosevelt desires opportunity to rest, and apparently he is in need of a period of recuperation. His hunting trip put him in fine fettle, and his physical condition when he reached Khartoum was better than it had been in years.

The whirl of entertainment and speechmaking in Egypt, however, followed so closely by his strenuous stay in Rome, in which he had scarcely an hour to himself, told on him. Fear of being misunderstood in the position he took in the dispute with the Vatican added greatly to his cares. It is known that the incident caused him considerable worry, though he has not admitted it in any way.

Carriage Ride to Genoa.

To-day, however, he dropped all thought of anything but gayety. Not until he reaches Porto Maurizio will he again take up public matters—there he may meet Gifford Pinchot, ex-chief forester.

Meanwhile the Roosevelts hope to be as much alone as is possible for persons of prominence, with Kermit and Miss Ethel left in Rome, and the correspondents asked to keep themselves as much out of sight as possible. The ex-President and his wife began their carriage ride to Genoa, a three days' trip, with all the leisure of a pleasure jaunt, to-day. Haste was thrown aside. Frequently Mr. Roosevelt stopped to enjoy a particularly beautiful view or to visit some nook that he remembered from his wedding tour.

No definite itinerary had been arranged for this trip. The drive to Genoa is sixty-five miles. From Spezia to Porto Maurizio in a bee line across the gulf of Genoa is a matter of a 100 miles; along the road that follows the curving coast, it is about twice as long. In the middle of this sweep is Genoa; from there to Porto Maurizio the Roosevelts will travel by train.

The period of rest will be continued at the villa of Miss Carew, Mrs. Roosevelt's sister, where the former President will remain three days. It is there that Gifford Pinchot is expected to meet his former chief. No one else will be received there by Mr. Roosevelt.

AND THE SPHINX SMILED

Colonel Roosevelt's itinerary as projected but subject to change is:

April 15-17—Vienna; Emperor Francis Joseph gives a state dinner April 16.

April 18-19—Budapest.

April 20—Leave Budapest for Paris, where about a week will be passed.

April 28, May 2—Brussels, The Hague, brief halts at Rotterdam and Hamburg, Copenhagen.

May 3-5—Christiania, arriving at Stockholm on the evening of May 5.

May 8—Returning to Christiania, will sail for Germany.

May 9—Berlin. Will be Emperor William's guest May 12, 13, 14 and 15.

May 16—Leave Berlin for London. Will pass about three weeks in London and in visiting friends in English country houses, then sail for New York.

FOR PEOPLE WHO ITCH AND SCRATCH

Get a 10c. box of Cadum, the new remedy, at any drug store, and apply a small quantity to any part of the skin which is affected and it will stop the itching at once. It is also good for pimples, rash, blotches, also where there is inflammation, chafing or itching. Inside of a day the trouble will be greatly relieved and often disappear completely. This test will prove better than words the remarkable virtues of this new compound. Cadum is likewise a safe and sure remedy for Eczema, Salt Rheum and other stubborn skin diseases of that nature. The itching stops at once when it is applied, and the healing process is immediately begun. Full-size boxes of Cadum, containing about four times as much as the 10c. package, are sold for 25c.

ANOTHER BANK IN BROOKLYN CLOSES DOOR

NEW YORK, April 7.—The Borough Bank of Brooklyn at No. 20 Court street was closed to-day by order of State Superintendent of Banks Cheney. It was understood that the reason for the suspension was the inability to realize on the assets inherited by the present directorate of the old bank.

The closing of the Borough Bank follows that of the Union Bank, which suspended two days. The president of the Borough Bank is B. R. Shearn. The excitement that followed the notice of closing was allayed when Superintendent Cheney issued the following statement:

"Pursuant to the request and the provisions of the banking law the superintendent has taken possession of the property and business of the corporation. No further statement regarding the condition of the bank will be made until the inventories have been completed. There has been no withdrawal of deposits from any other institution."

Later it was stated that none of the depositors would lose a penny and that the closing was merely a precautionary measure.

The Borough Bank was one of the original Gow banks and a part of the International Trust Company which failed in 1907. The deposits, amounting to $4,000,000, are chiefly invested in suburban property.

JACKSON FILES LOW TELEPHONE RATES REPORT

Professor W. D. Jackson, the Technology expert, who has for a year investigated telephone conditions in Boston, to-day reported to the Highway Commissioners at the beginning of its public hearing that he recommends complete revision and lowering of the rates, which will mean a saving to the public of between $300,000 and $400,000 a year. His recommendations are, in brief, as follows:

(1) A complete redistricting of the Boston and suburban telephone field.

(2) A complete revision of rates, reducing them between $300,000 and $400,000.

(3) That the exchanges like Main, Fort Hill, Main, Oxford, Tremont, Haymarket and Back Bay constitute the Boston district and that all other exchanges constitute a suburban district, through which other smaller districts should connect, as, for instance, Hyde Park and Dedham.

(4) That for connections within a district (such as Boston or a suburban district, like Hyde Park) no toll charge be made to flat rate subscribers.

(5) That within a radius of seven and one-half miles of Boston a 5-cent toll rate be charged between the metropolitan and suburban exchanges and for any calls within an exchange.

(6) That all party lines be limited to two subscribers and that the instruments be changed so that when, say, "Winthrop 64, ring 2," is wanted "Winthrop 64, ring 1" phone will not ring.

(7) That the price of extension sets in business houses be reduced from $18 to $12 and in residences from $15 to $12.

Professor Jackson, who made the investigation with his brother, Professor E. C. Jackson, was the first speaker at the public hearing, which began to-day before the Highway Commissioners.

SOUTHBRIDGE BANK LOOTING INQUIRY OPENS

Public hearings into the causes of the looting of the Southbridge Savings Bank of $370,000 by John W. Hall, its treasurer, who is now in jail in Worcester, began to-day at the State House by the Legislative Committee appointed to ascertain how Hall was able to rob the bank for three years without discovery.

To-day's public hearing started off with a rush and some excitement. Trustee Wood of the Worcester County Trust Company who was present as a spectator wanted to ask the committee to find out if the State Bank Examiner's office was to blame, but Chairman White of the committee, ruled that Mr. Wood had no right to ask any questions. Representative Washburn of Worcester, a member of the committee, jumped to his feet and protested saying:

"Personally, I am going to use all my influence to find out if the bank examiners of this State have been doing their work and really examining banks. We want to find out who was to blame in this affair."

The witnesses began with Thomas F. Baxter of the Boston brokerage house of Bond & Goodwin.

"Mr. Hall was a personal friend of mine," said Mr. Baxter. "He often bought and sold stocks through our house, and always the best of stocks. Once he lost some money, and we gave him back about half of his losses."

"Wasn't this unusual?" was asked the witness.

"Well, Hall was a friend of mine," said Mr. Baxter.

"Do you know anything about Hall's playing poker?" asked Representative Dow.

"No, I didn't know that Hall played poker. He always seemed to live quietly."

VIENNA FEARS TROUBLE BECAUSE OF ROOSEVELT

VIENNA, April 7.—Theodore Roosevelt has lost prestige here as the result of his dispute with the Vatican, and his coming is waited with trepidation. The chief fear on the part of the official class is that he will do something that will have a bad effect on the relations between Austria and Hungary, already delicate. Certain august personages regard his stand toward the Vatican as tactless, according to the court gossip.

THESE WOMEN RECOMMEND DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS

Convincing Evidence of the Great Benefit Received from the Tonic Treatment Which is Curing Weak Women Everywhere.

It has been said that seven-tenths of the women of this country suffer from their peculiar troubles, and endure distress that makes the lives of many of them miserable and almost unendurable. To such sufferers it will be a blessing to know that there is a remedy exactly suited to their ills, a blood-making tonic that will restore the functions to their regular activity without which there can be no permanent good health.

If there is any interruption of the law of nature, symptoms will result such as severe headache, loss of appetite, pale or sallow complexion, palpitation of the heart, swollen ankles or legs, nervousness, offensive breath, etc., etc. The sufferer may exhibit one or more of these symptoms, or may have all. They simply indicate the ravages that disease has made upon the system, and the more of these symptoms the patient shows the greater the necessity for prompt and persistent treatment, until they have been banished and health is restored.

Thousands of women have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with the most gratifying results, and no other medicine is so highly praised by them. Following are a few recently investigated cases:

DURING CHANGE OF LIFE

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Give Just the Strength a Woman Needs.

Mrs. Alfred Lamoureaux, whose address is Box 68, R. F. D. No. 3, Newport, Vt., received the strength she needed at the critical period of her life from a thorough trial of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"A few years ago I was taken with chills and dizzy spells. I called a doctor and was under his care for some time but kept growing worse. He finally told me that I was suffering from the change of life and that I might be sick for years.

"My appetite failed me, my stomach was badly out of order and I had terrible headaches. My nervous system was completely broken down and I had a feeling that I couldn't govern myself if I didn't find something to strengthen me. There were constant pains in my back and head.

"When the doctor failed to help me, I asked my husband to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He bought me three boxes and when I had taken them I felt much better. I kept right on taking the pills and was cured. I am in good health now, have a good appetite and my nerves are strong. I can recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to every woman who suffers during the change of life."

PALE, WEAK GIRLS

Need Plenty of Rich Red Blood to Ensure Healthy Development.

Miss Flora A. Boissy, of No. 98 Hickok street, Winooski, Vt., after suffering for a year and a half from weakness common to growing girls, was quickly cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"When I was fifteen years old," she says, "I began to suffer from weakness. I had terrible headaches, backaches and bearing-down pains. I lost in weight, strength and color. My appetite was very poor and my limbs ached dreadfully. I was in such poor health that my parents thought I was going into consumption.

"The doctor did not help me, so my mother had me try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She had used them to build up her strength and found that they were good. After a fair trial I knew that the pills were helping me. I gained in strength and was free from the distressing pains. I used the pills until cured. I am constantly on my feet while at work, but feel in perfect health. I am only too glad to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to other sufferers."

SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Made a Cure by Building up the Blood.

Mrs. W. H. Williams, of Blanchard, Me., was cured by this tonic treatment after years of suffering. She says:

"When I was about eighteen years of age and was changing into womanhood, I suffered terribly from pain every month. I was obliged to stay in bed for at least two days each month. I had a dull, heavy backache which caused me a great deal of suffering. Food soured on my stomach. My heart palpitated and I would often feel faint at my stomach. In going up stairs I would have to rest because of shortness of breath. I was very nervous and could not sleep well. I was hysterical and would cry over the least little thing. I became greatly run down, was pale and had no ambition.

"I was treated by several doctors but without relief. Altogether I must have been under doctors' treatment for ten years. Finally I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills upon the advice of a friend. I had not taken them long before I felt that I was being helped. A fair trial cured me completely and made me feel like a different woman. I am always glad to tell young girls and other suffering women about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

HAD FAINTING SPELLS

A Severe Case at Portland Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Philip H. Smart, of No. 125 Smith street, South Portland, Me., says:

"While attending school I caught cold and suffered from weakness for about a year. I was all run down and did not have a particle of color. My parents thought I was going into consumption. I was short of breath and was subject to fainting spells. My limbs seemed to be all tired out and I had hardly enough strength to get around. My stomach was so weak that whatever I ate caused me a great deal of pain. My kidneys were affected and I kept growing weaker and weaker. I finally had to quit school.

"I did not improve much under the doctor's treatment of about six months and later gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. Soon I could see that I was gaining in flesh and strength. There was plenty of color in my cheeks. My appetite improved and I was cured. I certainly think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful remedy and cheerfully recommend them."

AN OPERATION AVOIDED

This Maine Woman Cured Herself by Using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Gilbert G. Seekins, whose address is R. F. D. No. 1, St. Albans, Me., says:

"I was a great sufferer from weakness for about a year and a half. During the early part of my sickness I was confined to bed for four weeks and later for two weeks. I was nervous, had headaches most of the time and could not sleep at night. There was a pain in my side and I could hardly stand on my feet. My appetite was poor and I had indigestion. I was run down in weight to less than 100 pounds and could not do my housework.

"I was treated by three physicians during the first year of my sickness but they did me no good. At last they said I must go to the hospital. My husband would not consent to this but had me try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills instead. In a week's time I was feeling better. My appetite increased and I gained in weight and strength until I was able to do my work again. My mother has also been cured of a general run-down condition. I keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills constantly on hand and praise them highly."

SUFFERED EVERY MONTH

From Thirteenth Year Until She Tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

In the case of Mrs. Levi Bergeron, of Ashuelot, N. H., Dr. Williams' Pink Pills made a lasting cure, which she describes, as follows:

"When I was about thirteen years of age, my health became poor. I was pale, thin and could not do much of anything. I suffered terribly every month and became so weak that I could not do my work well. I couldn't get much sleep and my appetite was poor. I was ailing for years until I finally tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and found great relief after taking only a few boxes. I used the pills until cured and now keep them on hand to use as a tonic."

AFTER CHILDBIRTH

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restore the Strength and Health.

Women who do not regain their strength after childbirth would do well to try the remedy which cured Mrs. B. M. Edwards, of High street, Livermore Falls, Me.

"I was confined to bed for four months following childbirth," she says, "and did not feel well for years. My nerves were all unstrung and I had several nervous chills, when I trembled all over and seemed to have no control over my muscles. My heart was weak and my feet were swollen.

"I was treated by doctors but did not get much relief until I gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. The pills quickly helped me and completely cured me. I have since recommended the pills to many people, among them my daughter, who suffered for several months from weakness caused by getting her feet wet at an unfortunate time. The pills cured her also and I am glad to give them this recommendation."

Why Not Cure Yourself?

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are good for men and women but they help the latter in a special way at the critical times in their lives. In cases of debility due to overwork they not only minister fresh strength but overcome all nervous symptoms. They are a specific for anaemia or bloodlessness; they rapidly make pure, rich blood. They are particularly helpful to girls who are on the verge of womanhood. Used at this time they insure perfect development. They also meet all the requirements of the period known as the change of life. They quickly correct the depressing condition known as spring languor. They strengthen weak digestion and rouse up every sluggish organ to healthful activity. No other tonic combines so many virtues.

Our booklet, "Plain Talks to Women," explains fully why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are of benefit to women of all ages and gives many helpful suggestions in regard to the care of their health. It will be sent free, in a sealed envelope, upon request, to any woman interested.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. Wonderful Sale of Women's and Misses' Sample Suits

Values $25.00 to $37.50 for 15.00

A large New York manufacturer of high-grade tailored suits, whose reputation is famous for his high-class tailoring, sold us his women's and misses' sample suits, some two hundred in all, embracing all the very newest kinds of tailoring and fashioned after the most exclusive imported models. Fabrics are such as you find only in the swellest 5th ave. shops, and this lot being samples you find only one or two of a kind, which means exclusiveness not usually found in a sale. The colorings are all that is new and brightest, including the new pastel colorings, and white, grey, navy, black and fancy mixtures. We consider this the greatest bargain ever offered at this season of the year, and would suggest an early selection, $25, $35, $37.50 values,

For 15.00

Included in this wonderful collection of suits are about 50 dresses. To make this sale doubly attractive, we have picked out from our regular stock 50 more that have been marked $22.50 and $25.00. They are the season's newest models, and made of such materials as plain and changeable taffetas, and the like. Many are accordion plaited, others are very dressy.

Remarkable $22.50 and $25.00 values, for $15.00

Dainty White Lingerie and Tailored Waists, styles a little out of the ordinary, Friday and Saturday $1.50 and $1.98.

STRONG LINE OF OFFERINGS AT PLAYHOUSES

Billie Burke's engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre remains just as prosperous as ever, but its limit is reached and only four more chances remain for seeing her in "Mrs. Dot" by W. Somerset Maugham.

"The Harvest Moon" is waning at the Colonial, so far as time is concerned, and this is the last week in Boston of Charles Frohman's company, headed by George Nash. From here it goes to Chicago.

William Hodge's fourteenth week at the Park Theatre is just as largely attended as the other thirteen were before it, and it looks as if "The Man From Home" might well stay here for some time to come.

Raymond Hitchcock's personal popularity, the merry jokes and the catchy music of "The Man Who Owns Broadway" are quite enough of a combination to assure long continued prosperity at the Tremont Theatre.

Lew Fields in "Old Dutch" will soon terminate his Boston engagement at the Majestic Theatre. "Old Dutch" is a typical Fields show, clean, classy, and amusing.

"McFadden's Flats," now playing with great success at the Grand Opera House, is a riotous hodge-podge of fun interspersed with lively musical and dancing numbers.

"The Boys of Company B" is pleasing everybody at the Castle Square, especially juvenile high school soldiers. It is an amusing and cleverly constructed comedy by the author of "Brown of Harvard."

"A Yankee Prince" is a big hit at the Boston. Probably there is nothing quite so funny as the scene when Steve Daly gets admitted to King Edward's palace on a letter of introduction from John L. Sullivan.

"The Man of the Hour" is repeating its former Boston success at the Globe. There are only a few more days of this engagement.

Blanche Bates in "The Fighting Hope" at the Shubert is demonstrating her wonderful versatility as an actress. It is a far cry from "The Girl of the Golden West" to the stenographer of New York.

WilliamWolff and company are headliners at the American Music Hall this week, but "The Operator," Searl Allen & Co., and Rinaldo are very popular features.

Mlle. Dazie, the dancer, is one big hit at Keith's this week. W. C. Fields, Carson and Willard, Dolan and Lenharr, Harry Breen and the other acts are all calculated to please.

Miss Lillian Goulston will appear in pianoforte recital at the Henry F. Miller piano warerooms, No. 395 Boylston street, to-morrow evening. Miss Goulston will play a program which will include numbers from Tschaikowsky, Schumann, MacDowell and Grieg.

Friday night is the great big night at the Columbia, and an unusually likely lot of amateurs have signified their intention of competing.

The "Morning, Noon and Night Girls" are making things hum at the Howard.

Al Reeves's burlesquers are one of the biggest troupes on the road. They are at Waldron's Casino this week.

"The College Girls" are doing more than giving college yells at the Gaiety.

The Fat Ladies' Convention at Austin & Stone's is nearly over.

Social Notes

The third annual reunion of the 1222 Club and California tourists was held at the Bellevue Hotel last night. Augustus Taylor of Ayer presided. Many of the G. A. R. men from Ayer, Bedford and South Framingham, with their families, attended.

The Elmore Club, composed of young ladies from Cambridge, met last night at the home of Miss Edith English and completed arrangements for the club dance, to be held at Odd Fellows' Hall, East Cambridge, Monday night.

The annual dance of the Halcyon Club will be held in Corinthian Club Hall, No. 1651 Washington street, Friday night. The Misses Theresa Lawrence and Sadie Keely have charge of the affair.

The Spring Hill Athletic Club of West Somerville held its second annual dance at Anthoine's Academy, last night. The committee was Fred Miller, Frank J. McCarthy and Chester E. Coddy.

Three hundred members of the Cathedral Court, Massachusetts Order of Foresters, celebrated the thirty-first anniversary of the order, in St. Rose Hall, Worcester street, last night.

The Riverview Club of Neponset will hold its semi-annual dancing party at Bloomfield Hall, Dorchester, to-morrow night.

TRAIN ROBBERS PUT TO ROUT

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—It became known to-day that a desperate battle between train robbers and the crew of the Philadelphia & Reading Buffalo express occurred late Tuesday night near Perkasie, Pa. The bandits, four in number, were driven into the hills. The train carried specie and costly merchandise worth many thousands of dollars. The robbers were driven from the roofs of the cars with revolvers by the train hands, who then pursued them.

When the train sped through Sonderton, the agent there saw men huddled on the roof of one of the express cars. He flashed a warning to Perkasie, where Station Agent Haney, armed, flagged the train. The crew gave battle and the bandits fled, firing as they ran. The shooting caused a panic among the passengers.

LINERS DELAYED BY HEAVY FOG

A dense fog which has been covering the whole New England coast for several days became heavier to-day and a number of steamships and freighters are now overdue in Boston Harbor because of the necessity of creeping into the harbor at reduced speed.

The Cunard liner Ivernia, from Liverpool with 2,078 passengers, was due to-day, and the Red Star steamship Marquette, from Antwerp with forty passengers, was overdue six or eight hours. The Dominion-Atlantic steamship Boston, from Nova Scotia with the first Spring shipment of lobsters, is another of those held up by the fog. She carries 1,655 cases of lobsters.

TAFT WEEPS AT A THEATRE

WINSTED, Ct., April 7.—Minute observations of the actions of President Taft at the theatre have been made by E. S. Ela, editor of the Manchester Herald, who recently occupied a box at a Washington theatre near that of the President. Mr. Ela told all about it in his paper. This is what he noticed:

1. The President doesn't mind being looked at.
2. His seat is bigger and stronger than the average theatre seat.
3. His eyes were moist after the sad close of the second act of "The Awakening of Helena Richie."
4. He did not try to conceal the moisture. Far from it, he drew forth a folded handkerchief, shook it open and applied it to where it would do the most good.

CONGRESSMAN IS CORRECTED

MEXICO CITY, April 7.—William Randolph Hearst has severely criticised Congressman Padgett of Tennessee in a letter to the Mexican Herald.

Mr. Hearst took exception to the statement of Representative Padgett, who recently said the efficiency of the United States navy was more than twice that of the Japanese navy.

"This statement of Representative Padgett is an unhappy combination of folly and falsity, of ignorance and absurdity. The listed and acknowledged strength of the Japanese fleet is almost equal to the strength of the United States fleet, and this acknowledged strength of the fleet of Japan does not include the convertible cruisers in her subsidized merchant marine, nor yet the Dreadnoughts which are believed to be building for Japan through the agency of some of the South American republics," is one paragraph of the Hearst letter.

FINED FOR SCORCHING.

Demarest Lloyd, a Boston automobile dealer, was fined $100 to-day in Cambridge District Court, of which $25 was for overspeeding and $75 for refusing to stop at the command of an officer.

EASY TO WIN BACK YOUR HEALTH

It is not a very hard task to get back to the "highway of health" provided you act promptly at the first sign of weakness or ill-health and assist Nature in every way possible. Then this calls for the friendly aid of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters immediately. Delay or experimenting with unknown remedies only aggravates matters, prolongs your sickness and makes it just so much harder to win back your health. Thousands of people, who know from actual experience, keep a bottle of the Bitters handy at all times, and a few doses at the right time always wards off a sick spell. Try this plan to-day. It is excellent in cases of Poor Appetite, Heartburn, Belching, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Biliousness, Spring Ailments, Impure Blood, Malaria, Fever and Ague. Insist on having Hostetter's.

KITCHENER IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—Lord Kitchener, commander of the British forces in the Department of the Mediterranean, which also includes the Far East, has arrived on the steamship Mariposa, from Tahiti. He has been making a tour of inspection in Australasia and is on his way to England.

In a communication to the British Consul-General, Lord Kitchener expressed the desire to be received here as a private citizen and that no public reception be accorded him.

Lord Kitchener's report on his inspection of the Australian military forces states that the forces are inadequate in numbers, training, organization and munitions of war to defend Australia from the dangers due to prevailing conditions as well as to Australia's isolated position.

HETTY GREEN AT DESK AGAIN

NEW YORK, April 7.—Just to show the financial world that she is still perky and able to count money, Mrs. Hetty Green left the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wilkes, at No. 440 Park avenue to-day and went to her desk in the Park National Bank, No. 214 Broadway.

Mrs. Green was accompanied by her son, Colonel E. H. R. Green of Texas, and her daughter. The trip was made in a hired taxicab called from the Waldorf stand. At the bank Colonel Green assisted his mother to leave the machine, and the old woman walked into the institution on the arm of her daughter. She appeared feeble. Colonel Greene said for his mother that after a week's vacation she was returning to business and that he would remain in town a little while to help her with her affairs.

INSANITY DEFENCE PLEA FOR MASKED BANDIT

SLAYER OF SPRINGFIELD TEACHER TELLS ENTIRE CAREER OF CRIME.

SPRINGFIELD, April 7.—The aged and gray-haired mother and father of Bertram G. Spencer, the twenty-nine-year-old confessed murderer of Miss Martha B. Blackstone, to-day announced that they will spend every dollar they possess in a fight to save their son from the electric chair.

"I know that my son is guilty," said Mrs. Spencer this afternoon, "but no one will doubt that he is insane. He tried to kill his own father twice.

"Once he drew a revolver and his father's hand stopped the pistol's discharge. My son tried to kill his own uncle in California when on board a ship, and during the rest of the trip he had to be kept in irons."

Insane for Many Years.

W. L. Spencer, father of the murderer, who is a well-to-do farmer of Lebanon, Ct., said: "We have known for years, my wife and I, that our boy was not sane. In his fits of fury he tried to kill me twice.

"My own father died in the Middleboro Insane Asylum. His grandmother died in one thirty-five years ago.

"My son had fits, when he was uncontrollable. After he had run away from home fourteen years ago he returned and tried to shoot me. We sent him to California, where he tried to kill his uncle. He tried to kill me with a shovel when he was young. Always after these attacks he would cry and sob for hours."

Lawyer Daniel A. Leary, who has been retained to defend Spencer, said to-day that he would base his fight for the life of the accused young man on the ground that he is insane, and that his confession shows that he suffers from an exaggerated ego.

Spencer has been a thief all his life. He stole everything he could lay his hands on when he was a boy. As he grew up the temptation to steal grew on him. He stole a big revolver, the death weapon in the murder case against him, from a soldier in the regular army. With this revolver he practiced marksmanship so that he could toss a dime into the air and "pink" it with a bullet.

Crime Career Amazing.

He began his career of crime more than two years ago in this city. With an audacity that has never had a parallel in the criminal history of the country, he invaded houses, hid under beds while women were retiring and then coolly demanded their money and jewels. Once he appeared before a party playing cards and made his demands. He criticised one man for not having more than $4 when he was about to go on a vacation, but he took that.

It is one of the strangest manias for burglary that the police of any city have ever studied. The friends of Spencer say that his brain was injured when he was nine years old. They will try to make it appear that he was not responsible for his daring crimes.

He will be tried for murder and will not be allowed to plead guilty, it has been announced by District Attorney Taft. Much sympathy is expressed for his mother and young wife.

One of the things that was brought out by Spencer's confession was that he did not take the route after the Round Hill murder that was followed by the bloodhounds brought here to track down the criminal.

As one of the peculiarities of Spencer's mind it is brought out that he told his wife that much of the jewelry he stole were gifts that had been returned to him by former sweethearts. It is apparent that she believed his Munchausen stories of former conquests in the feminine world just as she did his explanations of where he obtained the looted jewelry.

It is also asserted that Spencer wanted to bet $100 with a fellow employe that the murderer of Miss Blackstone would never be captured.

Makes Remarkable Confession.

Spencer's remarkable confession follows:

"My life of crime began when I was a mere boy. I remember being punished by my father when I was nine years old. I believe that had a great deal to do with my future. When I was about twelve years old I did my first stealing. I've been stealing all over the country since that time.

"I have committed burglaries in other places besides Springfield, but practically all of those that have been committed in this city in the past year I was responsible for. I took a great deal of pleasure in reading the accounts in the newspapers of these burglaries.

"When I was a young man I enlisted in the navy, but I was discharged for disability. I then went to work for the People's Express Company in San Francisco and was at work there when the earthquake and big fire happened. I drifted along after that, working here and there throughout the Northwest.

Stole a Revolver.

"While I was in California I stole a big Colt's army revolver, which I have used in these holdups. This is a thirty-eight calibre weapon with a walnut stock. I took this revolver from a soldier in the regular army. I like firearms and practiced with it so that I became an expert marksman. I could toss a penny in the air and "pink" it before it touched the ground. That gives you an idea of how good I could shoot.

"I came to Springfield about five years ago and worked around in different places. Wherever I worked, my disposition, which was of a peculiar character, always resulted in my being discharged before very long.

"I always had a great desire to have jewelry and nice things, but my income would not allow me to indulge in them. However, I resolved to get them in some way. When I was a boy I took most anything I wanted if I could put my hands on it. I did not care at that time for the worth of the thing, but I wanted to satisfy myself that I had it.

"The first real 'break' in Springfield which I committed was at the home of George A. Ludlington on Avon place. That was in July, 1908. I had no revolver that night. I went to a rear window, the pantry, I think, and climbed in through the window to Mrs. Ludlington's room. I crawled under the bed and waited.

Demand Diamond Rings.

"When Mrs. Ludlington had got in bed, I scrambled out, confronted her and demanded money. When I asked her for money, she replied that she had none.

"'Yes, you have,' I declared. 'You know you have money. I saw you take off two diamond rings, while you were undressing. Where are these rings?'

"Mrs. Ludington denied that she had the rings at first. Then I told her that I would kill her if she did not get the rings. She said that she would hand them if I wouldn't harm her. In the meantime I had tied her hands. I untied her and she gave me the rings. One of these rings was identified by Mrs. Ludington Tuesday.

"I was very much amused when I read in the Springfield newspapers an account of this robbery. The thing that appeared funny to me was the description which Mrs. Ludington gave of me.

"A few nights after this affair I was walking along a street, peeking into different windows when I saw some people playing cards. I had my revolver with me at this time. It was warm and the window was open, so I pulled out my revolver, walked up to the window, poked the weapon through into the room and demanded money.

Discovered Under a Bed.

"'Don't you make a move or make any noise,' I told the people in the room, 'but hand over the money.' In spite of what I said the people jumped up, and some of them ran into an adjoining room. I ran away.

(This visit of Spencer is supposed to refer to the home of Frederick D. Parsons on Union street.)

"I think the next job I did was on Greenwich street near where I lived at that time. I climbed into the house through a window and hid myself under a bed just as I did in the Ludington case. Later on a woman came into the room and went to bed. I lay on the floor under the bed for some time, but in turning over I made a noise, and suddenly I saw the face of the woman peering under the side of the bed at me.

"I scrambled out from under the bed and demanded that the woman give me money. She gave me some, and I left the house.

(This burglary was never reported to the police. Spencer's story was the first intimation they had that it had been committed.)

"So far as I can recall the next house that I visited was that of Dr. Robert P. Ames on Seventh street. Dr. Ames lived across the street from me. One evening while the people were on the front porch I got into their cellar, went upstairs and hid myself in a closet in a bedroom, where I stayed until two girls came in to retire.

Took All the Silverware.

"When everyone had gone to bed I went downstairs, packed up all the silverware that I wanted, took some of the jewelry which I found lying around, and then went into the bathroom and examined what I had gathered up. I left the house, taking the articles with me.

"When I got outside the silverware and jewelry were left in a bundle beneath a building near the railroad tracks. I was very much surprised to read in a newspaper the next morning that one of the girls said that she was awakened by the burglar, but that she was so frightened that she could not give an alarm. This was news to me, for I did not know that I disturbed anyone.

"The next house I entered was that of Mrs. Helene J. Fisk at No. 88 Calhoun street. I got in through a window. Then I made my way upstairs into Mrs. Fisk's room. I pulled my revolver and pointed it at her, demanding money. She gave me a small amount and I left the house.

MISS LUCY DOW.

Girl wounded by Spencer, who declares he is the man who hot Miss Blackstone.

"I was walking past the house of Nelson R. Hosley, No. 22 Brookline avenue, when I saw a large crowd collected and noticed the door standing open. I went in and helped myself to what I wanted. I got several articles of clothing.

"The next morning I read in the newspapers that a robber had thrown a noose about a girl's head, dragged her some distance for the purpose of drawing a crowd and emptying the house and then walked into Mr. Hosley's house to rob it. As a matter of fact, I had nothing to do with the lassoing of the girl, but that added a piquant feature to the story and I enjoyed reading it.

(None of these breaks told about by Spencer, had been attributed by the people of Springfield to the masked burglar.)

Surprised by Women.

"I was in the vicinity of the home of W. M. Swan on Bellevue avenue last April, a year ago, and seeing some women in the hallway, I forced open the front door and demanded money. No sooner had I said anything to the women than they came at me in a way that showed they meant business. I was so surprised that I fired my revolver. I did not shoot at the women, but shot out the lights. As I did this I heard a man's voice from the top of the stairway cry out, 'Here's money; now get out!'

"I was surprised to find a pocketbook come spinning down the stairway. I was afraid to pick it up for fear that I would be shot. I ordered one of the women to pick it up for me, and taking it I left the premises.

"It was only a few nights later that I undertook the job at the home of former Alderman Arthur H. Rogers in Temple street. This is the only time that I came anyway near being caught. I got into the Rogers house by means of a window, probably the pantry window. As soon as I got in I hid myself in a closet and waited developments.

"It was not long before I saw a man and two women come along the hallway off which the closet opened. I heard the man say, in reply to a remark from one of the women about the windows, 'Oh! never mind those windows.'

"The man then went down into the cellar, probably to attend the furnace. I thought I would surely be seen by the man as I stood in the closet, but luckily I escaped notice.

Took Money from Girl.

"I watched the members of the Rogers family go up stairs to bed and then when all was still I made my way to the rooms above. I located the room of Miss Della Rogers. I entered the room and demanded money.

"'I haven't any money,' she said.

"'Don't you scream or I'll kill you,' I said, pulling out my revolver.

"Then I made her get out of bed and go down stairs, where she found her mother's pocketbook, and she gave it to me. I bound the girl with ropes after that and ransacked the different rooms. I packed up the silverware and jewelry and left by way of the window by which I entered. I left the bundle of silverware in the rear of the house.

"The next robbery I committed was at the home of L. J. Powers on Pearl street. I got in through a window as in the other house. I went upstairs and discovered the two girls, Alma and Hilda Sundberg. I demanded money from them, and they told me that they had none. I asked them where the man of the house could be found. They told me that Mr. Powers was not at home. It took them quite a while to convince me of that fact.

"I talked to the girls a while and then I heard a door shut somewhere in the house. I hastily secreted myself in the closet near by and watched. Soon a man, who proved to be Mr. Powers, came upstairs and passed me going to his room. I stepped out of the closet, followed Mr. Powers to his room and just as he stooped over the bed I walked in and pointed my big revolver at him and demanded money.

"I got about $4 from Mr. Powers, but I told him that a man of his standing, who was going away on his vacation, ought to have more money than that about him. I did not try to find out for myself whether or not he had more money about him and after talking with him a few minutes I started downstairs with the intention of leaving the house.

"When I got downstairs I found that I could not get out alone. I went back to Mr. Powers's room and told him to come down and let me out. I kept him covered with my revolver all the time while he was showing me out of the house.

"There were probably thirty robberies in Springfield and about three in Greenfield. There was also one in Brattleboro, Vt., when I was running to White River Junction as a brakeman. When I lost my locket in one of the robberies I was afraid the jig was up. I thought it would be my undoing. It was good fun. I gave the people every chance in the world to identify me.

Robbed Just for Fun.

"Now that I look back I never thought I could be caught. I did not rob for the money there was in it. The police found most of the things I stole. I just wanted some fun. I have never had any bad habits. I never smoked or chewed or drank a drop of liquor. I did not use drugs in any form.

"I got to the Dow house on Round Hill early in the evening. I entered by a rear window and hid in the large clothes press in the bedroom. The family at that time was at dinner. I flashed the pocket light about the closet and found a green and white Indian belt which I put into my pocket. While the women were at dinner I ransacked the bedroom. When I had got all I wanted I walked through the door leading from the dining room to the parlor. I did not use the revolver or even show it.

"I don't remember what I said, but I know that in some words I asked for money, and they told me I couldn't have it. Just then one of the women screamed. She got up from her chair and ran toward the front door.

"Up to that time I had had my own way. I didn't expect that any of the women would leave their seats. It upset me completely.

"I fired quicker than I could think, and after that I seemed ready to shoot at any object. When Miss Harriet Dow pushed a chair in my way I fired at her, too.

"I can't tell you why I stopped shooting. All I know is that I did not intend to kill anybody when I went there."

Spencer's declaration that he had no bad habits, never using drugs or liquor, is not accepted without reservation by the police. Tiny scars and punctures on his arm, they say, show that he was an expert in the use of the hypodermic syringe for injecting morphine.

It is believed that Spencer was under morphine influence when he committed his depredations, as since he has been deprived of any chance to get the drug his demeanor has undergone a complete change. The spirit with which he fought when he was placed under arrest and his subsequent calmness of manner have departed, and he is now a broken man.

Spencer broke down completely when his mother and sister, who came here from Lebanon, Ct., saw him in his cell room. Weeping as if his heart would break, he threw himself into his mother's arms and piteously exclaimed: "Oh, why did I do it?"

The shock to his relatives was terrific. They came to Springfield expecting to receive from Spencer the assurance that he was innocent and the victim of a police error, and when he acknowledged his guilt both mother and sister were overcome and had to be led from the cell room.

After seeing Spencer his mother went to his home on Porter street, West Springfield to offer sympathy to his wife, who is too ill to leave her home. Their meeting was very affecting.

When Mrs. Spencer was asked what she thought of her son's confession, she replied:

"I do not think that my son can be considered responsible for the deeds charged against him. He did what he did because of insanity. I mean that he did not realize what he was doing. It has frequently been found that men will commit most inexcusable offences because of a sort of mania."

Mrs. Spencer was then asked if her son showed a criminal tendency when a boy. She replied: "My boy was like a great many other boys. What he did in his youth I always forgave him for, because of his youth. He never had any bad habits.

"It has been said that he was a morphine fiend and that pricks of the syringe had been found on his arm. That is utterly untrue. He never smoked a cigarette or drank a drop of liquor.

"If he had been utterly wicked as he has been pictured this wickedness would have cropped out in his habits. I love my son as much as when he left me. I forgive him because I know he did not realise what he had done until now."

"About twelve years ago I was bothered with my kidneys and liver, having pains in different parts of the body, especially in damp weather, and it became so that my neighbors would ask me when it was going to rain. At times I could not get about. I tried plasters and medicine, but only got relief for a day or so. A friend sent me word that he had something that would cure me. I sent and got it—it was WARNER'S SAFE CURE. Before I took half a bottle I was better. That one bottle cured me and for 12 years I have had no symptoms of the misery I had before I took the medicine. I would advise all that are in need of a medicine for the kidneys, liver, bladder or blood to take Warner's Safe Cure. When $1.00 will keep one up for 12 years, it certainly is worth trying."—W. F. PRESIDENT TAFT'S TRIBUTE TO THE JEW

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Speaking to the delegates of the B'nai B'rith, President Taft paid the following tribute to the Jews:

I have profound admiration for the Jewish people, because they are essentially artistic, because they make excellent citizens, are in favor of law and order. I am glad to have them come to this country. They have the profoundest appreciation of our institutions of liberty and education.

I am a Unitarian, but the church where my father had a pew stood next to the Jewish Synagogue in Cincinnati, presided over by that distinguished Jew, that learned man, that patriot and citizen, Rabbi Wise, and the churches were so close together that often pulpits were exchanged. So, on the main question, I am orthodox.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures.

"Favorite Prescription" is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice.

Some of the numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 31 one-cent stamps for cloth-bound copy.

ATTORNEY FOR CLAIMANT NO. 1 MAKES FRAUD CHARGE of the Senator's periods, but were sternly checked by the Court and sheriffs.

The court room was packed as it had not been since the trial opened last Fall. Women fought for admission. By 7 o'clock 200 people were jammed about the doors of the building. When the doors opened there was a general charge in which well-dressed women shoved and struggled till three deputies had to restrain them.

Question of Signatures.

Senator Simpson said:

"I closed yesterday by referring to the second bunch of Rusean letters. The boldest of the manipulation of these exhibits is found in exhibit 38. Professor Hingston and Dr. Hamilton said on the witness stand that the hand that wrote the name of Eugene C. Upton in the probate petition is the same hand which wrote the name of Joseph Rusean, Helena, St. Lawrence County, N. Y.

"This gentleman took the witness stand and, of course, denied that he wrote it, and, of course, the same gentleman dignified Your Honor with his presence and told of his absolute purity. Exhibit 153 was artificially aged, according to Dr. Gill and Professor Hamilton, and, Your Honor, that statement has not been contradicted by Dr. Davenport. For some reason, designedly, I apprehend, these instruments were manufactured fraudulently and used for the purpose to deceive. No better exhibit can be shown as a product of manipulation than in exhibit 94, an envelope bearing the back stamp of Utica, N. Y. We brand that stamp not genuine.

We produced the man who made the stamp, William Chilleo. Mr. Chilleo said that that stamp was not a genuine one. Mr. Nason argued against the fact but we must concede that the statement of Chilleo is true.

Buy a New Microscope.

"Mr. Nason argued, and I think it unworthy of him, that the evidences of plumbago on these exhibits were placed there by Dr. Hamilton. Dr. Davenport did not find this appearance of plumbago. I would suggest that Dr. Davenport, who is an expert in the use of a microscope, go over to Boston and purchase a new one in place of the machine which he used and which is of the date of a half century ago.

"If the words penned by the claimant on a sick bed at Dickinson, North Dakota, to his brother William are to be believed, certainly at that time the people who have engineered this defence against the rights of the rightful heir knew he was the heir. To poor simple-minded Willie in his seclusion probably this had never been conveyed to his mind."

Referring to Exhibits 95 and 96, known as the "Liz" letter, Senator Simpson said:

"They ask you to believe, Your Honor, that no letter came to the Russell household because William C. has denied it, but Mr. Johnson, a Melrose letter carrier; James Curtis, the hired man, and Frank Boyle, another Melrose letter carrier, all of whom read this letter, have testified that it was similar to the Dickinson, N. D., letter, which was addressed to William C. Russell."

"As Plastic as Clay."

In a voice which contained the bitterest scorn Senator Simpson continued:

"And how did this letter get into the possession of Berry & Upton? I'll tell you, Your Honor, how it was. It was by the hand of Sarah Almy, in whose hands poor, old, simple William is as plastic as the clay that the modeler handles."

These remarks were greeted by audible applause and handclapping by the spectators, which had to be checked by the court officers.

Continuing, Mr. Simpson said: "Either William C. Russell falsely testified or he is of not sufficient brain-power. Maybe Eugene C. Upton, whose face would give him thirty days in any courtroom west of the Mississippi, had a reason for obstructing Daniel Blake Russell."

Senator Simpson then took up the matter of the various letters and envelopes which the claimant's handwriting experts have testified have been tampered with. He said:

"Taking into consideration the remark made by Mr. Davenport, one of the experts for the defence, 'false in one, false in all,' I would call your honor's attention to the cancellation of exhibit 38, and would show you where the creator of this slipped up as the wicked always do somewhere and some time in carrying out their schemes.

Letter Paper in Dispute.

"'Dead Beat' Hayes, as the claimant has dubbed him, although put on by the defence, I think is a valuable witness for the claimant. It has been said that the claimant wrote this letter upon paper from a Dickinson newspaper, yet the envelope is from a Dickinson hotel. If this envelope comes from a Dickinson hotel, why is not the paper from the same place?"

In referring to another exhibit Senator Simpson said: "This stamp never went through the railway postoffice of the St. Paul & Spokane railway. Even the naked eye can see that this stamp was handled by some person other than the postoffice people. Mr. Nason yesterday unintentionally stated in his argument that we had not called anybody to refute the testimony of Mr. Perkins of the Postoffice Department of Boston. But Mr. Nason was mistaken. We called Mr. Owen of the Boston Postoffice, who not only contradicted Perkins, but made a deliberate liar out of Eugene C. Upton.

Charge of Forgery Made.

"In an unfortunate and unguarded moment for Eugene C. Upton, seeking to head off the rightful claims of Daniel Blake Russell, and fearful that his own forgeries would be discovered, Mr. Upton appeared before the government authorities in Boston and told them, after he had learned that William C. Russell had signed his name to some letter, that Frank Boyle, the Melrose letter carrier, was a friend of Daniel B. Russell. Upton knows that he is Daniel Blake Russell. Sarah Almy knows he is and Ferdinand B. Almy knows he is.

"Mr. Upton said he is a friend of Daniel B. Russell; that he (the claimant) is a blackmailer, and is trying to obtain the signature of William C. Russell that he may forge it. The same thought was in his mind when he obtained the signature of Daniel Blake Russell. Upton is so steeped in iniquity in the handling of these trust funds that, to escape punishment for his wicked acts, he would say anything."

Referring to the testimony of ex-Chief of Police Fred Sackett of Norwood and Professor Hingston, who contradicted Mr. Perkins, Senator Simpson said that Mr. Perkins had admitted that he had one cross eye, and that his other eye was defective. Simpson alleged that Perkins had said early in November that stamp exhibit No. 38 was a fraudulent stamp, and that he had found various crooked exhibits, yet he came on the stand and denied it. He also denied that he had tried to be retained as an expert for the claimant.

"Even though he denies it," said Senator Simpson, "I think Your Honor may draw a proper conclusion that, failing to be retained, he went over to the opposition."

Continuing, Senator Simpson said: "I wish to go back to the early days of the trial, when the Rusean letters were coming thick and fast, and I recall to Your Honor Exhibits 31, 32 and 37—envelopes. These envelopes have a red cross on each one, and in the corner is written the initials of some person. I do not know who that person is or for what purpose the initials appear there. No evidence has been offered to show why they were placed there.

Evidence Offered.

"On each there appears to be a genuine cancellation stamp from San Creek, N. D. The back stamp on these envelopes is Medora, N. D. Your Honor is mindful of the distance between these two places and how the mail is carried from one place to another by donkey team, but in spite of that fact these cancellation stamps both bear the same date—October 15, 1906—and they also both bear the hour of the day. This alone is the most patent evidence of fraud.

"I now wish to refer to a man, a resident of Melrose, a man who is a friend, a classmate and a seatmate of Daniel Blake Russell, a man who knew him as long as he could remember, a man who believed in giving everybody a square deal and one who repudiates the scum of the earth brought here from New York by the Pinkerton detectives to say that Daniel Blake Russell, his friend, was James D. Rusean. This man is William Keating. He was not guarded by the parasites who hedged around the Rusean bunch, but he talked with the claimant and he swore on the witness stand that he was Daniel Blake Russell, and that the name Daniel Blake Russell appearing in his autograph album was written by this man.

Referring to the Bloomer photograph album, Senator Simpson said:

"You remember, Your Honor, that Mr. Bloomer could neither read nor write. He was the kind of a man who would do anything he was asked to do for a consideration. I claim that this exhibit (the album) was created last Fall for the purpose of deceiving the Court."

JEFF PLAYS BASEBALL TO GET INTO SHAPE FOR JOHNSON FIGHT

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

JEFFRIES'S TRAINING CAMP, ROWARDENNAN, Cal., April 7.—Farmer Burns is the first man in the new mountain training camp to sport a black eye, and, strange as it may seem, it is not from the impact of a gloved fist. The farmer was hit by a swiftly thrown baseball while playing with Jeffries and his nephews, Boyer and Kistler, and this smoky wick is the result.

Jeffries did not go on the road as expected. The atmosphere of the pine country had a somnolent effect on the big fellow, and he remained between the blankets until the morning sun was high. When he did arise, however, he busied himself.

After a hearty breakfast he called his crew together and set them to mowing the grass on a patch of turf back of his gymnasium. As soon as the space was cleared it was duly installed as the baseball grounds and play began.

It might be thought that ball chasing is rather a mild pastime for a heavyweight pugilist to do in training, but it is doubtful if Jeffries infuses as much action into anything else he does. Play continued for a full two hours and before it was through Jeff fairly dripped perspiration.

He was stripped to undershirt and pants and even his clothing was soaked. What is more to the purpose he was animation itself. His eyes danced and he urged his companions on to greater efforts. It was nearly lunch time before a halt was called and while they were preparing Jeffries' bath, he sprinted several times along one of the paths between the cottages.

It was given out that Jeff would not engage in boxing until Friday, but for that matter it will be several days probably before anything like a program is followed.

Jeff Taboos Scales.

It is well known among those who followed Jeffries closely in past training that to him a weighing machine is a bugaboo. Up in Harbin Springs he once said that for two pins he'd toss "the dern thing over in the canyon." He likes to do plenty of work and feel that his frame and limbs are cleaned of excess material. He avoids the scales for fear they will inform him that he is heavier than he thinks. Dick Adams, who was Jeff's crony for years, was asked by one of the Santa Cruz visitors if he saw much difference in Jeffries' appearance at present as compared with the Jeff of the Harbin days.

"All there is that I can see is that he has a little less hair," said observant Mr. Adams. "His face is as young looking as it was up in the country, and that is what surprised me. The pictures that came back here after he returned from Carlsbad gave him an older look than I think he now has.

Most of the visitors saw Jeff at work and the fact that Johnson's prospective opponent seemed to have no further weight reduction to make was generally commented upon. One of the visitors asked Jeffries if he was keeping track of his weight and Jeff replied that he was not.

"I am feeling good and that is all I want to know," was Jim's characteristic reply.

"They say the camera can lie, but hang me if I don't think they gave Jeff the worst of it. As to his activity, let every fellow judge for himself. To me he seems as limber and as full of energy as ever. I know for certain that at the close of every spell of work he feels like keeping right along and doing as much more. When he got up this morning I heard him whistling around his room and he meant it too. He is quite cheerful and I don't know that I ever saw him so light of step and so lighthearted just after he had begun training."

Dick's offhand remarks were listened to attentively and it was acknowledged by some of his hearers that he was in a good position to judge and that he ought to know what he was talking about.

Jeff Sweats Too Freely.

"Look at the way he is reeking with sweat," said one. "Why, I have seen ball players when practicing jump and romp five hours at a stretch and never saw them sweat to that extent. It may be all right but I have heard old trainers say that to sweat too easily is as much a sign of faulty condition as not to sweat at all."

This is a sample of arguments Jeff is bound to be the subject of from now until his preparations are complete. It shows the way the sporting men differ on vital subjects and it is also evidence of the interest Jeffries and his training have aroused. Jeffries went in for handball, fishing and rowing this afternoon. Later in the day he began the building of a dam in the river so as to increase the extent of water available for rowing and swimming purposes. This work was to have been done before he came here but Manager Anderson of the Rowardennan Hotel rather expected there would be spring rains which would interfere.

FELLSWAY CLUB OPEN MATINEES APRIL 16

Through the lease of Combination Park not having been made to begin before April 16 the Fellsway Driving Club has postponed the proposed matinee scheduled for the coming Saturday to a week later.

Members of the club are anxiously waiting for the tap of the bell, and it is promised several trotters and pacers will make their debut under club colors.

TOMMY QUILL COMING GOOD

BROCKTON, April 7.—Tommy Quill, the crack welterweight who has been seriously ill with pleuro-pneumonia, is able to be out of doors once more and looks fine. Quill's last fight was with Young Loughrey of Philadelphia at the Armory A. A., Boston, the latter winning. Quill put up the poorest exhibition of his career that night and his followers were greatly disappointed.

It has been learned that Tommy was ill the night of the fight, but wouldn't give in. He hasn't offered any explanations and probably will not mention his illness or condition before the fight. That's his manner.

His followers feel that he can put it onto Loughrey and are anxious to see the boys meet again. Tommy had planned on cleaning up everything and then taking a slap at the holder of the title, but his illness puts him back some and he will be unable to re-enter the ring for two months.

EDITORIAL.

Yes, we've decided to change—not the methods but our advertising style which seems to be so consistently followed by others. We can't afford to buy big space—cannot afford half or even quarter pages—so we've decided to publish once in awhile a paper of our own—and we're going to let only one man advertise in it—that's yours truly—You'll see that ad down in the corner of our paper. Recognize the style—don't you?

Is advertising overdone? No, it is mostly underdone, and some of it is pretty raw.

Noah advertised room for rent and filled the ark.

The conservative advertiser is like a crab; he looks one way and crawls another. I would rather put $50 copy in a $5 space than 50-cent copy in $500 space.

WILL HIS THROWING ARM AND BATTING "COME BACK"?
WILL HIS CATCHING ABILITY "COME BACK"?

A Tailor Caught

Trying to counterfeit "the collar that hugs the neck"

Newman Refuses to Prosecute.

For a period of over a month certain advertising tailors have been trying to duplicate well-known hand work features of one of Boston's oldest established tailors. Yesterday one of them was caught, red handed, actually claiming to duplicate "the collar that hugs the neck" feature of H. Newman & Son, 224-226 Washington St. He was promptly hauled up by the authorities but Mr. Newman refused to bring action in the case.

In discussing the affair last night Mr. Newman said: "Why should I bother him? Others simply cannot duplicate the hand-made work I put into garments unless they charge $30, while my price is $20. So there the matter ends."

WE HAVE NO PATENTS

On our advertising methods or our clothes—they're simply NEWMAN MADE, with all that our experience and personal attention implies. It's better than patent rights to be able to turn out such coats as come from Newman's. Who else for $20 makes such coat fronts? Such collars that hug the neck? Such fronts that do not curl or break, yet remain flexible?

SPEED BOYS IN PRIME FORM AT NASHVILLE

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 7.—The Red Sox arrived here hale and hearty, and with appetites that filled the waiters at the hotel with dismay. The new hotel the team had contracted to stop with was not ready for occupancy, so all hands went to the Duncan, which is a vast improvement over the snare that housed them a year ago.

There is a game with the Nashville team to-day and another to-morrow after which the team leaves for Cincinnati.

Donovan is much pleased at the way Tommy Madden is handling the big mitt and there is no doubt but that he will get plenty of work this season. He is a very willing worker and being such a good batter and fast runner his services are apt to count for much.

Weather Just Suits.

The boys are hoping the warm weather will continue. It is what they want to keep them in just the right condition. Of course, it is expected that we will strike colder weather before long.

Little Amby's arm seems to be about 50 per cent. better than it was ever before. A weak throwing arm has always been the midget's handicap, but this year it looks as though the infield would pull off many double plays.

Tris Speaker's batting was the bright feature of the Memphis game. The Memphis grounds were always his hoodoo when he played in the Southern League year before last, and after the season closed it was figured that he did not bat over .125 in the games at Memphis.

But the great centre fielder has learned a thing or two about hitting the ball since he played in the Southern League. The first time up he pounded a two-bagger to centre. Then he singled to centre the second time up.

Homer for Speaker.

The next time he died on an infield hit, but next time up he dropped the ball over the right field fence for a home run. It was a beautiful, long drive and cleared the high fence by thirty feet. When he came up for the last time he cleared the bases with a terrific drive against the right field fence.

Lord also hit the ball for keeps, a single and a three-bagger being his contribution in four times up.

The Red Sox are moving along finely, not trying to do too much and taking no desperate chances. Things are breaking well for them. They have run into no injuries. They are a happy lot and will open the season with great confidence.

RED SOX NOTES.

Heiney Wagner catches a man napping off second every day. He blocks the runner off to perfection. Of course he will get badly spiked some day doing this.

The boys ran up against some good pitching at Memphis. They wound up their stay here by making eleven safeties, including two triples, a home run and two doubles.

Bradley's arm is a wonder and the way he whips the ball down to second in practice is as good as was ever seen. He will play first base on the Red Sox team that meets Worcester on April 12. The boys are counting the days now they are itching for the season to open.

Big Jake Stahl is putting up a game at first that could not be improved upon.

PETER ALLEN BUYS PACER MAJOR M., 2.17 1-4

There was quite a representation from the local driving clubs at Welch & Hall's auction sale when two well known matinee horses were under the auctioneer's hammer. Major M., a pacer with a half-mile track record of 2:17¼, that the late Rance Wentworth raced at the matinees of Fellsway and Metropolitan Driving Clubs, was knocked down to Peter Allen of Dorchester, who owns Ralph Wick, 2:13¾, and other trotters. Fred Bellows, the owner of Onward March, 2:20¼, was a contending bidder for the gelding.

Hollis P. Gallup, who consigned the trotting gelding Judge Green, 2:09, concluded that as no one would raise his own bid of $322.50 for the son of Directum he would take him home and use him in a delivery wagon, if necessary.

DOVES BATTLE WITH COLONELS AT LOUISVILLE

By W. H. ROSS.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 7.—The Doves, after undergoing a railroad wreck at Saxton, Ky., in which Engineer William Rudolph was killed, have arrived in this city to play the Louisville team, pennant winners in the American Association.

The Louisville club is a good one and has made a fine showing against all the big leagues who have come to this town this Spring.

The Boston outfit is up against an organization which can hit, field and run. Manager Lake hoped to have Herzog and Collins, the recruits from the Giants, join his team here, but they are with the second and third teams, and Manager McGraw is not likely to turn them over until after all the exhibition games for which the New Yorks have been booked have all been played.

Del Howard With Colonels.

Becker left the Doves yesterday at Knoxville, going to Baltimore to join the McGraw aggregation when the several squads reunite there.

Manager Peltz says the Colonels have looked good during the preliminary season, and regular attendants at Eclipse Park are touting them as the best ball club this city has had in years.

It is doubtful whether Del Howard, now a Colonel, and who was spiked on Monday, will be able to play against the Doves. It is said that an American League and a National League club have been trying to buy him from Louisville and when asked about this, President Grayson of the Colonels said of this former Boston National player, "I paid a good price for Howard and I do not intend to let him go, although I could make money off the deal if I did. I expect him to be of value to the club this season."

Burlesque Ball Grounds.

Manager Lake has been a long time in the baseball business, but remarked when he looked at Wait field, where the Knoxvilles play: "I never saw a ball field before. It is a wonder. It is only half a ball ground."

Right back of third sack is a high bank which runs diagonally across the outfield. There is no left field, and center field is very much abridged, while right field consists of about two acres.

The left fielder stands on a sloping bluff and if acquainted with the premises at an altitude of about twenty feet. The centre fielder plays right at the foot of the ridge and often has to go up it to get a ball.

In fact a Tennessee college outfielder has to be able to climb like a goat. Any hit to left field which is not taken on the fly is good for two sacks and under the ground rule can't count for any more.

McNabb, the centre fielder for the Varsity team, climbed fifteen feet up the ridge for a fly and caught it sitting down. He got up in time to throw a base runner out at third. It looked as if he was heaving the ball off a roof.

The Collegians played Brooklyn a few days ago and were beaten, 6 to 5. How they came to make such a showing against that major league club was not demonstrated by anything which happened yesterday.

WINTHROP CLUB RUN SET FOR APRIL 19

The Young Men's Union of Winthrop, the strongest young men's club of the town, composed of two hundred young members between eighteen and thirty, and a great many honorary members consisting of many influential men of the town, are going to have a club run on April 19 at 10 a. m.

This run is to be open to all residents of Winthrop over sixteen years of age, and cups are to be awarded the first four, and medals to the next six in order. Everyone who finishes will get a medal with the club name and date of the run.

The route is to start at town hall, Pauline street, to Pleasant, to Main, to Hermon, to town hall, Winthrop, to Washington avenue, to Shirley, to Beach road, to Crest, to Revere, to Magee's Corner, to town hall.

For any further information apply to Martin Sullivan, clerk of course, No. 10 Cora street, or Rogers's store at Center.

NEW HORSES ENTERED IN SPEEDWAY RACES

Never in the history of the Dorchester Driving Club has there been so many fast horses owned by members of the club as this season. Members to make good have bought some of the fastest in greater Boston. Such trotters as Carl C., 2:17¼; Klondyke, 2:15¼; and the pacer Kremella by Kremlin, 2:07¾, will be seen on the Franklin Field Speedway next Saturday, as well as many other good ones.

S. Walter Wales, the veteran starter, sounds the bell at 2 o'clock, which marks the beginning of the Spring series of races that close June 27. The Fall series begin August 27, at the end of the great inter-club races, and close Thanksgiving Day.

HARVARD GETTING READY FOR RED SOX

The rush to get tickets for the Harvard-Red Sox game next Tuesday at the Huntington avenue grounds tells plainly that there is going to be a big turnout to see the collegians battle with the big leaguers the first time in many years.

The Harvard students will mass on the third base side of the field, that section having been reserved for them, and they will get down to business in the rooting line from that point of vantage, and it's a safe bet Captain Lanigan and his men won't want for any encouragement in the vocal line.

The game will start at 3:15, and Ban Johnson has assigned Umpires Kerwin and Egan to officiate.

MURPHY STAR OF YALE'S VICTORY

NEW HAVEN, April 7.—Yale squeezed out of several tight holes, but finally managed to whitewash Trinity 2 to 0. One of the runs was a present, Murphy crossing the plate in the first inning on Gildersleeve's low throw to first, with two out. Murphy, who scored the only runs of the game, banged out a homer in the fourth inning to the left field track. Blundering base running in three different innings checked a Trinity rally and made scoring impossible.

JIM GALVIN BREAKS RIB IN BOUT ON MAT

CHICAGO, April 7.—Jim Galvin forfeited his match to William Demetral after being floored once by the victor in the wrestling bout at Euson's Theatre last night, claiming that he had a broken rib, on which Demetral fell. Demetral took the first fall with a scissors and wrist lock in 11:40. Adolf Ernest downed Jack Alvers in straight falls.

FRANK DEFEATS BOWDOIN.

In the thirteenth game of the Class C amateur billiard tourney at the Hub Palace last night, Frank beat Bowdoin, 150 to 114. To-night Bowdoin plays Malo.

PERRELLI WINS IN ROUGH BOUT

Jack Perrelli and Harry Litovsky met on the mat at the Columbia Theatre last night, and "The Terrible Jew" went down to defeat in two out of three of the bouts. The big house of fans expected something out of the ordinary with such wrestlers as "The Italian Cyclone" and "The Terrible Jew," and this was one of the times that the expected happened. There was plenty of excitement from the start to the finish and almost constant cautioning from the referee. The times of the bouts were sixteen minutes and eight minutes, and were won consecutively by Perrelli. It was a battle of giants.

RETIRING FROM THE TAILORING TRADE

SELLS OUT TO

Mitchell The Tailor

AFTER 40 years in the fine tailoring trade, Thursday of last week Mr. H. P. Whitcomb, Boston's highest class tailor, sent for Mitchell the Tailor. He wanted a man in the habit of handling big things in the tailoring business and big thing financially. He sent for Mitchell, the man with the money to swing an immense woolen proposition—the entire stock of H. P. Whitcomb, the finest line ever imported. I bought the stock; it took lots of money and confidence, but the stock is now mine and is now at my store, 305 Washington Street, Boston.

To give you an idea of the value of the stock, Whitcomb was a tailor who catered to the ultra swell Boston dressers, men who wanted the best, regardless of price, men who knew the best and would wear nothing else. You know the kind; dressers from Fashionville, men who paid $80 to $11 for a suit and $15 to $25 for a pair of trousers. Mr. Whitcomb's establishment was a palace, a picture palace of mahogany, plate glass, exquisite imported rugs, some costing into the thousands, and all the chests lined with cedar, moth and dust proof. His chambers were a fitting background for his costly stock.

The best selections, the richest of manufacture, and from an artistic standpoint, the most beautiful ever imported, were sent here from abroad in exclusive suit patterns (not in bulk). Whitcomb's clothes never became ordinary or common, no two alike—understand.

Tweeds, serges and cheviots and fancy vicuna coatings, vestings and trouserings such as a woolen connoisseur would delight in. Whitcomb's lowest price suit was $85. From that 'way up.

Blue and gray serges from the home of serge originators, Vickerman of England, imported to sell at $85.00, made to measure at this sale with the original ticket from Whitcomb, for Fancy Suiting, tweeds, cheviots, serges and vicunas. These goods marked with original tickets and price.

$15.00

$15.00

Trouserings

Having had an experience of 25 years in the tailoring business, I have yet to see a stock of trouserings to compare with Whitcomb's London trouserings. The goods represent a value of from $6 to $9 per yard, and you have only to feel to realize their high character. Whitcomb's price was $15 to $25. I will take your order with a guarantee of Whitcomb's ownership of the goods, for

$5.00

To My Old Customers:

Don't wait on this sale. If you are in no hurry, come in, select your cloth, and I will put it aside for you until later. A TIP.

RAWSON WINS OVER LYNCH

Tommy Rawson pleased his East Boston admirers last night at the American A. C. when he won the decision [illegible] rival Johnny Lynch of Cambridge [illegible] end of ten rounds of the fastest kind of milling.

The Noddle Island boxer was at his best and full of action from the moment the first bell clanged, and kept pounding his [illegible] into Lynch while the [illegible] was in an uproar by the terrific pace.

The peppery lefts that Rawson [illegible] up worked havoc with Lynch [illegible] the straight [illegible] and not avoid the right cross [illegible] had ready to let loose. Lynch was [illegible] and stood up well under the [illegible] bombardment that was handed to him.

He took his seat at the head of the table. She had grown very pale and I saw her [illegible] tremble as she [illegible] bell for the maid.

"Bring Mr. Burton's [illegible] as [illegible] you can. And [illegible] care f[illegible] now [illegible]"

But he [illegible] He was [illegible] for the [illegible] how sorry he was to be so late [illegible] urban tra[illegible]

He was [illegible] steady [illegible] and set down [illegible] edge of the ta[illegible]. Every second [illegible] he would knock it off. Yet [illegible] to move it over to safety, as it would seem like a recognition of his condition, and I wished to spare her that.

But when, a moment later, the glass went crashing to the floor [illegible] hesitation. He mumbled more apologies, and the deep color rushed into her pale face.

When the maid brought his dinner, she laughingly said if I didn't want to finish my coffee in her place and let her come over and wait on him? She had dressed his salad, she said, and waited on him so much that he was badly spoilt.

Her poor little excuse was so pitifully evident to us all! She wanted to sit beside him, to see that he did not overturn or spill anything else—to shield him as much as she could.

We did what we could to help her, talked and laughed and tried not to see his fumbling awkwardness and her watchful care. She picked up his napkin, kept his knife and fork on the table and his glass out of reach of his elbow.

A Young Wife's Humiliation

After dinner we went into the library, where he grew more and more effusive. She sat near him, trying to direct the conversation, cleverly interrupting him when he grew a little maudlin—protecting him in every way she could.

For her sake we left as early as we could, without making it too apparent. And for days I was haunted with the memory of that evening, of the humiliation of that young wife and her brave efforts to shield the man she loved.

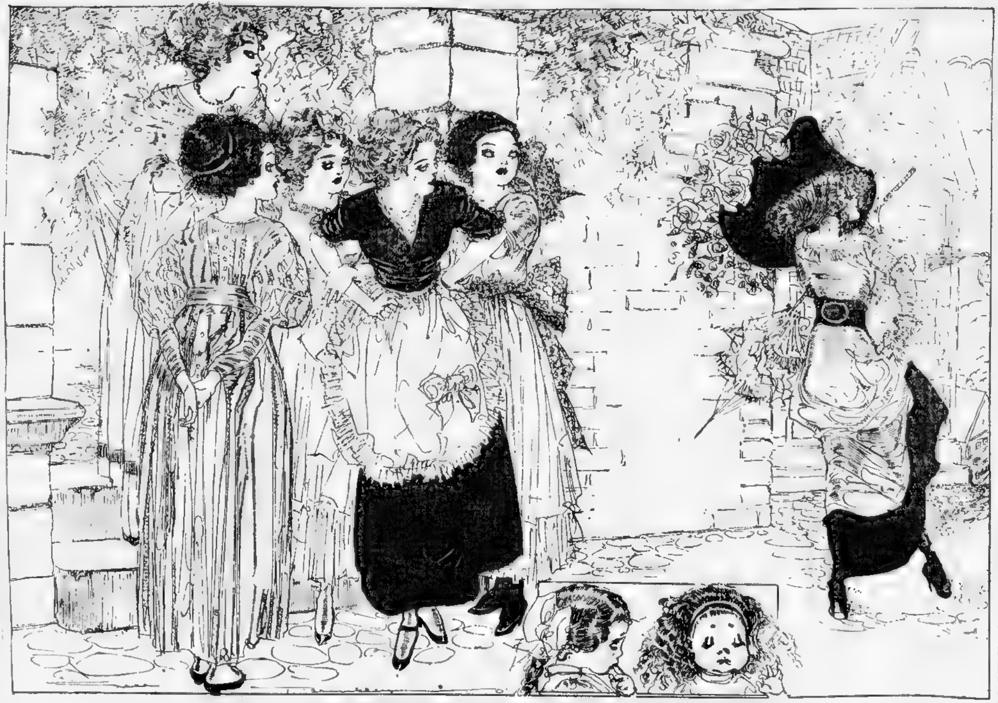
And he—did he love her? Could any man love his wife and yet come home to her in that condition, and [illegible] before her guests?

Did the momentary exal[illegible] he received from the wine [illegible] for the heartache it brought to her? Does it ever compensate the passing pleasure of wine? Does it ever pay for the sorrow and regret that it almost always brings?

The Human Passions No. 2--Envy

By Nell Brinkley

[illegible] 1910 [illegible]



"But your turn in your Bubbling Talk, and your heart is fascinated and eaten with a childish, natural envy"

LITTLE Evelena Maude stands embarrassedly lost in wrapt contemplation of Juliana Elizabeth's blue celluloid comb!

Ah-h-h, it's a ravishing comb!

You've never been a little girl, a really little girl, if you haven't one time envied some other little atom the bright blue celluloid comb that she had. It is narrow and its teeth are skimpy, but its color is the celestial hue of the sky, its [illegible] is a thing to tempt. It reaches from ear to ear over the crown of her tow head and it strains her tow hair back in a fascinating fashion that makes her eyes bug out and Japs them at the corners, and then it lets it go loose in a ravishing broomy brush behind. Such a darling sleek press in front over her little knob of a forehead; such an infatuating outlawry behind to flap over her ears when she skips rope!

And her ma crimps her brush, too. If one's own ma didn't have such a funny notion that placid big braids with ribbons on was the most artistic fashion, and would only braid one's hair in teeny ropes at night and then let it loose to look like a choppy sea in the morning!

"Ma," you whisper, "now—now—now—why—uh—now ma, you know Juliana Elizabeth has a blue comb that most digs her ears on each side it's so much—now—mayn't I have a sky-blue comb?"

"Evelena Maude," your mum says back, "do you want to look like a heathen? Well, you will look like a heathen Japanese with your eyes grabbed out of your head so. And Juliana Elizabeth has it in backward, anyway. Her ma don't tend to her right. You go long and forget sky blue combs!"

But you KNOW Juliana Elizabeth has it in right. It looks most peculiar and best that way!

You like the way it keeps falling out, too, in that elegant fashion. Juliana Elizabeth rams it in again with such an air—every kid stops their play respectfully while she does it.

And you eye the blue comb and your heart aches with envy—if Juliana Elizabeth would only quit loving it and donate it to you.

Ah—h, the delights of a delectable blue celluloid comb!

Oh, Bettikins—you're only grownup Evelina Maudes. You stand in your country-town finery—and truly it's simple and prettier many times than the dream from the city that goes by.

Your ma still knows best. She still has the funy idea that placid braids, with simple bows, are best.

And the big girl with her hair crimpy and celluloid comb (in another way of saying) in gold braid, a turban swirl, black velvet shoes with brilliant buckles, and a cavalier hat under a bank of Spring ro[illegible] takes her proper place in the class in your ma's eyes. She's got th[illegible] perspective on her.

But you turn in [illegible] bubbling [illegible] Babette's gate [illegible] you. You wait till she is safely [illegible] you [illegible] like soldiers with your [illegible] lips, your fresh faces unconscious pictures of what they were years ago when a sky-blue celluloid comb went by, and your heart is fascinated and eaten with a childish, natural envy.

Animal Industry Failing

By PERCY SHAW.

POPULATION, says the census,
Has struck a fearful pace,
But animals we love to eat
Are dropping in the race
The dear old cow, the gentle lamb,
The Sultan of the sty,
All these are fading and ergo,
That's why our meat's so high
Soon ham will be like caviar,
And chops like buffalo,
The oldest man will tell us how
He once ate so and so
And yet the Beef Trust Octopus
Grows fat and smirks and gloats
As it views our human army

TO-DAY'S BEST STORY

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT, as a leading [illegible] easily outclassed ex-District [illegible] Jerome in all forms of heckling [illegible] suffrage meeting.

Mrs. Belmont, who was the principal speaker of the evening, was making the closing remarks of an able speech which had held the interest of her audience, when a diminutive and insignificant specimen of the genus homo at the rear of the hall [illegible]:

"Don't you wish you were a man?"

Mrs. Belmont's instantaneous reply was: "Don't you?"

SMILES

A LOCK OF HER HAIR

"Won't you give me a lock of your hair, Miss Genevieve?" he asked sentimentally.

"Gladly, Mr. Squiggs," said the young lady. "If you'll specify the shade you like best, I'll remember to buy the puff for you when I am uptown to-morrow."

HOW SHE'D PREVENT IT

[illegible] mother warned her sharply:

"If you do that again I'll smack you," she said.

"No, you won't," replied the quick-witted daughter. "[illegible] sit down on myself and then you can't."

Home-Made Cough Medicine

A Modern Diana--By Dorothy Dix

THE time-honored theory that, in matters of the affection, man was the pursuer and woman the pursued, has always, probably, been a good deal of a myth.

It was one of those convenient fictions that women invent for their own advantage, and men accept, because it is pleasing to their vanity. Without doubt, most women picked out their husbands before the men were aware of the ladies' amiable intentions toward them; and it is likely that the most shrinking violet could have told, if she would, how she happened to get pinned on the particular coat lapel whereon she was worn.

Heretofore, however, women have carried on the love chase under cover. They have disguised their traps. They have pretended to run from a man when really they were running after him.

To his surprise, a man has suddenly discovered himself stumbling over some particular woman at every step of his pathway, but she was always ready to present a perfectly good alibi.

She was there, it was true, and he couldn't get away from her, but she always said she was there by accident. Certainly by accident, and in the end, somehow, she made the man believe in the accident theory and that he discovered her, and he took credit to himself for it, and for winning her, whereas the truth was that he never at any time had the slightest chance of escaping her.

Diana Hunting in the Open

For many generations women have practised these tactics for the promotion of matrimony and the satisfaction of man, and so it is a matter of some wonder to note that this ancient plan of campaign is rapidly being discarded by the mdoern young woman, and that Diana has come out of the sequestered woodland and is hunting in the open.

The young women of to-day have given the old convention, respecting the relationship between the sexes, a jolt from which it will never recover, and which makes older people sit up and gasp. For these girls—and they are nice girls, good girls, girls in good positions in society—frankly take the initiative in furthering an acquaintance with any man they meet who happens to strike their fancy.

A young man with whom I am acquainted, for instance, is an attractive youth, with a handsome face, a glib tongue and a certain way with him. He is not rich, nor has he any brilliant prospects, nor is he particularly eligible. Nevertheless he is simply persecuted by the attentions of young women.

He will meet a girl at a party, for instance, and the next day he will get a note from her saying that her mother invites him to dine on a certain date. Not being smitten with the girl, and being overrun with engagements he will decline. In a few days another invitation will come that will also be declined. Then another, and another, and another, until finally he is simply coerced into accepting.

As the girl liked him on further acquaintance, she pursued her advantage, and the youth found himself forever dangling at her heels, in her house, or as a member of her theatre parties, or in her father's motor, and all really against his will.

What the Phone Girl Hears

Nor is this an isolated case. A girl who was a [illegible] told me not long ago that the conversations that went on over the wire between young women and men were incredible. She said it was a common thing for girls to call up their men acquaintances and reproach them for not having called, and when the men showed reluctance to do so, and made flimsy excuses, the girls would simply importune the men.

The [illegible] with grown sons who are living at home also bear witness to the fact that the modern girl is a sentimental hustler, and they have some very scathing remarks to make about the way that the young women nowadays run after men, instead of waiting for the men to run after them.

An interesting phase of the subject is that men are not pleased with the reversal of the old order of procedure in courtship. Of course, they may like it when they get educated up to it, but so far it cannot be said that the new plan is a success; for in prosecuting it the young women have overlooked one very important point. They have not taken into consideration that by nature man is a sportsman and a gambler, and that it is the [illegible] the element of danger, the uncertainty, that lures him on.

It has never been the woman that was the easiest to get, but the one who was most inaccessible, that man has been willing to risk his life for. It has never been the woman who wanted him that he wanted, but the proud Lady Disdain for whom he sighed. It is not the house whose door latch is hanging wide open that he is crazy about getting into, but the castle where he has to scale the wall and climb in through the window.

On the other hand, it is undeniably flattering to a man's self love for a woman to woo him openly, and this may be a compensation for the thrills of adventure he would have in chasing her, instead of being chased himself. This is the time of the breaking down of old traditions and moss-grown conventions, and undoubtedly one of them is the ban which has always been placed on woman's love-making, and that has prevented her from frankly seeking her mate.

It is significant, as representing the new attitude of woman toward man, that one of our leading realistic novelists, David Graham Phillips, takes this subject for the theme of his new novel, "White Magic." In this story the heroine, beautiful and enormously rich, falls in love with the poor artist, who does not return her affection at first. The girl makes frank and open love to him and even asks him to marry her. He refuses, but she persists in her wooing until she finally breaks down all the barriers he has set before his pride and his heart—and she gets him.

Is this prophetic of what will happen when woman arrogates to herself the right to tell her love?

THE LATEST CAUSE FOR WORRY

"I'm in a quandary."

"What's up now?"

"I can't decide whether I want a Buff Cochin or a Plymouth Rock design on my new chantecler hat."

Notice to Fat Women

Presumably you know, ladies, that the proper caper nowadays is lines. Curves are passe. You have got to take off your fat. This must be done in one of three ways. By dieting, by exercises, or by means of Marmola Prescription Tablets. The two former will keep you busy for months and punish you pretty severely, the latter will cost you 75 cents at the druggist's. The tablets will not make any alteration in your diet necessary, and yet in all probability, before you have used up one case, you will be losing from 12 to 16 ounces of fat a day. Which method do you like the best?

If you fancy this pleasant method of getting off the fat, see your druggist instantly, or else write the Marmola Co., 189 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., to send you a case by mail. These cases contain so generous a quantity of tablets that the treatment is very economical. It is, also, quite harmless, for the tablets are made exactly in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

A WEDDING in Rockford, Ill., to-day in which all the world of fashion in Boston is interested, is that of the well known young clubman, Dr. John Bryant of Mt. Vernon street, nephew of Mrs. Joseph S. Bigelow, Dr. William S. Bryant of New York and Cohasset and Lady Channing, of England, the wife of Sir Francis Channing, M. P., to Miss Adelaide Barnes. Any number of Bostonians have gone on for the affair.

The ceremony takes place at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes. The Rev. P. M. Snyder of the Second Congregational Church of Rockford officiates. The bride is attended by Mrs. George von Ostrum Forbes of Rockford, and Mrs. Harold Irving Pratt of Brooklyn, N. Y., her sisters; and her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Aubrey T. and Mrs. John S. Directly after the ceremony the young couple will start for New York and will sail from there for Europe as Dr. Bryant is to spend some time in study at Vienna.

A blaze of electric lights and a bevy of colors furnished a beautiful stage setting for the reception given by Governor and Mrs. Eben S. The brilliant uniforms of the officers mingling with the many and beautiful gowns worn by the women made the reception appear like a grand function at one of the European courts.

Members of the Governor's staff, headed by Adjutant-General Brigham, were stationed behind the receiving party, and Sergeant Henry Weston bore the Governor's guidon. Sergeant-at-Arms Pedrick had his whole force of messengers on duty with members of the district police.

MANAGEMENT

"I suppose your husband gets a very large salary."

"Why do you think so?"

Wife's Mother Against Hinds For Speaker

IF Asher C. Hinds, parliamentary clerk to "Uncle Joe" Cannon, succeeds the Czar as Speaker of the House of Representatives, establishing a precedent in the history of the country by having a non-member preside over the deliberations of Congress, it will not be with the consent of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Harriet Estey, of No. 46 Florence street, Roslindale. Mrs. Estey does not like politics. She likes the members of the House of Representatives less.

"Asher has a good position as it is," she says, "and I wish he would leave politics alone. I haven't much use for the men in the House, anyway."

Much interest has been aroused in Boston over the proposition to make Mr. Hinds Speaker of the House. Mr. Hinds married a Roslindale girl, Miss Harriet Estey, in 1891, and is well known by many Bostonians. The suggestion for his election comes from the "insurgents" in the House, who wish to depose Mr. Cannon, know they cannot elect one of their own men, and do not wish to elect a Democrat. There is no rule in the Constitution requiring that the Speaker shall be a member.

Friend of Reed.

"If my son-in-law is made Speaker of the House of Representatives at Washington, I think he will be the best Speaker the House ever had with the exception of Thomas B. Reed, and Mr. Reed got Asher his present position," continued Mrs. Estey.

"Mr. Hinds is also running for Congress, in the first Maine district. We always meet Summers at Great Chebeague island in Portland Harbor. I'm afraid this Summer Mr. Hinds will be so busy we shall not see much of him. Still, if the speakership is his ambition I sincerely hope he gets it.

"Mr. Hinds is a great man on parliamentary law. Some of the work he has done since he has been in Washington took him twelve long, weary years. He never received a cent for it nor ever expected to. He is patient, quiet and reserved. He is a very brilliant man and owes all that he has to himself. He was left without any parents when he was quite a small boy."

Began in 1895.

Mr. Hinds has been clerk of the speaker's table since 1895.

He is a trustee of Colby College, from which he was graduated; editor of Rules, Manual and Digest of the House of Representatives; Parliamentary Precedents of the House of Representatives; and Hinds' Precedents of the House of Representatives.

His home is at No. 83 Woodford street, Portland, although his business forces him to live in Washington Winters. Mr. Hinds was formerly a newspaper man in his native city.

DANCER TO MAKE DEBUT HERE IN FULLER GROUP

MISS HARRISON.

Loie Fuller In A New Dance For Bostonians

LOIE FULLER is to dance again in this city at the Boston Opera House in a special matinee next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. She comes with a bevy of new barefoot dancers, and is to present a series of dances even more remarkable for their weird and wonderful light effects than those she gave here before.

Miss Fuller is to appear in the "Garden of the Dance," a spectacle far different and more daringly beautiful than the famous "Ballet of Light." With Miss Fuller are to come the Countess Thamara de Swirsky, who will dance the Pere Gynt Suite by Greig with Paul Chute; Miss Chester, a new American dancer both beautiful and graceful, and Miss Bernice Tupper, a pretty Boston girl, who graduated from Miss Wyman's school. Miss Harrison is another beautiful and accomplished young woman who is to be seen here for the first time. A group of Muses will complete Loie Fuller's new company.

The Countess Swirsky studied the Pere Gynt Suite under its author, Greig, and from him she received his own conception of the act. She will also dance from the ballet of Orpheus and Eurydice and a Greek idyl with Paul Chute. Her Greek idyl is expected to create as great a sensation here as it did in New York at the Metropolitan Opera House.

"Yes, poor thing! She has given up all hopes of being kidnapped at home."

Life Insurance vs. Kidney Troubles

It is a pretty well known fact that the best insurance companies will not insure the life of persons who have kidney trouble. This goes to show how necessary it is for us to care for these hard-worked and often neglected organs.

Lame back, rheumatic pains in the joints, off colored urine, scanty, frequent or burning urination, dizziness, pain in the head, are the most common signs of trouble in the kidneys or other urinary organs.

The following simple mixture is one of the best cures for weak or ailing kidneys that can be had. Just get six ounces good pure gin and mix with one-half ounce fluid extract buchu, then add one-half ounce murax compound. Shake well together and take one to two teaspoonfuls three times a day after meals. Any good druggist can supply the above ingredients.

Stocks are replenished daily with fresh consignments of new, correct, seasonable goods. Thus the same satisfactory selection will be found in this Great Basement Store, if the less expensive things are wanted, as in the upstairs sections, where the higher-priced corresponding lines are carried.

This Great Basement Store IS NOT a "Bargain Basement" as the Term Is Usually Interpreted---It Is, First of All, a Store for the Sale of Regular Lines of Goods

It is, however, distinctively a "store of many bargains," for in addition to the regular departments there are 52 Bargain Tables overflowing with underpriced goods. Besides these, special sales in various departments are in order every day.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

Unquestionably there are vulnerable spots on the market, but professionals as a whole, have sold the list indiscriminately of late, regardless of the trade or technical position of properties.

$ $ $

An axiom, not too well known or remembered, is that if the time a man spends in finding out the mistakes he has made in selecting this or that stock haphazard for speculative purposes were devoted to obtaining special information about some particular stock which he might have good reason for believing was worth attention, his chances for making money would be improved. Unless a man devotes the same hard work to it that is necessary to earn a fortune in any other calling, plus the possession of an intellect of a special order and considerably above the average, he must be a fool to speculate at all.

$ $ $

The Stock Exchange appears to give little heed to the turn of domestic money or to foreign exchange. Interest is focussed on the borrowing and lending of stocks. Steel, Reading, Southern Pacific, St. Paul, New York Central, Atchison and Amalgamated Copper, to name the elect, are in inquiry temporary to cover short sales. Union Pacific, which, after having been heavily borrowed in the loan crowd for a fortnight, was freely returned.

$ $ $

Steel stock has been the market's fulcrum for weeks. Had it been less resilient, the share list would have been at a much lower level. But the buying on a falling scale has been liberal, authoritative and unmistakable, though not ostentatious, a market trait which has been a restraining force on bear operators who have an eye for indicators.

$ $ $

A director of the Pacific Coast said that if the present rate of earnings continues the payment of 2½ per cent, a quarter on the common and second preferred stock may be continued even after the missing back payments are made up. This would make the Pacific Coast a 10 per cent. stock.

$ $ $

The rights of stockholders to have back dividends made up has now been recognized by both the Steel Trust and Pacific Coast companies. Stockholders of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company have been clamoring for months to have their dividend rate made up. In the light of what other companies have been doing there is now hope for the Brooklyn Union Gas stockholders. Directors of the company will only arouse suspicion if they wait for the Legislature to adjourn before taking action.

$ $ $

State Street bears are talking about the country going to ruin for lack of business, and the railroads are pleading poverty, but every report by a railroad shows constantly increasing business and a constantly growing surplus. The Reading and the New York Central reported record breaking traffic for the month of March. The Steel Trust has already reported its record broken for that month.

$ $ $

The freight and coal trade on the Philadelphia & Reading Railway is so active that the officials are having difficulty in supplying sufficient cars. The traffic on the Harrisburg division last month was the biggest ever known.

$ $ $

James J. Hill wants to issue a convertible first mortgage bond. The Great Northern has about 2,500 miles of track not covered by mortgage or that could be easily freed. A $50,000,000 issue could be authorized against this and held in reserve, to be sold whenever the market would absorb it. By making them convertible, they would find a quick market, and in time, if the Great Northern wanted to issue more bonds, it would simply have to start a campaign in the stock, excite the bondholders to convert their security and thus free the road for another first mortgage issue. This plan would in time leave a railroad company without a dollar of funded liability. Brooklyn Rapid Transit is trying this plan.

$ $ $

Brooklyn Rapid Transit had its dividend increased by rumor, although several directors denied they knew anything of any intention. The rumor was caused by a plan to build a subway from the Manhattan bridge across to the Hudson River. The Street argues that the company will have to sell some bonds to build this subway and will have to make a better market for its securities. As it is earning enough to increase its dividend, an advance of the rate would probably put the bonds near par and enable the company to do some cheap financing.

$ $ $

United Copper preferred shareholders are informed that the Anaconda Copper Mining Company has offered to exchange share for share.

$ $ $

Both the crop reports and the Copper Producers' statistics appear to-morrow, and the course of stock market prices will be governed by their contents.

Charles Hayden of Hayden, Stone & Co. has been elected a member of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange.

Allen Arnold & Co. have issued a circular on the affairs of the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company.

Thomas Nelson Perkins, who has been elected a director of the Tamarack and Isle Royale mining companies, is a member of the law firm of Ropes, Gray & Gorham and is a director of the St. Mary's Mineral Land Co., State Street Trust Co., National Bank of Commerce, several Stone & Webster companies, trustee of Suffolk Savings Bank and a fellow of Harvard College.

Whitney, Watson & Co. are out with a letter giving reasons why stock of the Laramie, Hahns Peak & Pacific Railway promises to become prominent on the Boston Curb.

Superintendent Mareen of the B. & R. Rubber Company has been elected to the directorate of that company, succeeding the late ex-Mayor Sortwell of Cambridge.

MOTHER SAYS THAW HAD ONLY $400,000

NEW YORK, April 7.—The millions popularly credited to Harry K. Thaw at the time he killed Stanford White were only a myth. In reality he had only $400,000, so his mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, testified in the suit against her brought by Clifford W. Hartridge to collect $82,000 for services in Thaw's first trial.

FEARS FOR FRUIT IN NEW YORK STATE

NORWICH, N. Y., April 7.—Heavy snow fell throughout Chenango County to-day. The thermometer dropped 35 degrees in a few hours, and it is feared the sudden cold snap will greatly damage fruit trees.

METAL STOCKS WEAK TO-DAY

STATE STREET, April 7.—The stock market did not present any new phase this forenoon, although prices were what might be called soft. A covering movement has been responsible for the advance the past two days, and this covering has now culminated, for the time being, at least.

Locally Utah Consolidated was again the weak feature, seeking a new low on this movement at 22½, or a point below yesterday's low. The selling has come from tired holders, although the worst is now known regarding this company's condition.

The metal stocks were the weakest in the Wall Street list and the belief is general that a poor statistical exhibit will be shown by the Copper Producers' Association in its report for March to-morrow. Amalgamated opened off a point from yesterday's closing and Anaconda weakened fractionally. Utah Copper also fell 1 point. Steel common lacked the support it has been receiving of late and ran off over a point.

Difficulty is reported in either buying or selling inactive issues, which is not unusual in a narrow market like the present one. Reading fell 1 point, even though the company reports a record-breaking business. Contrary to this the Erie company reflects a falling off in business. General conditions, however, are reported on the mend, although slow.

The copper shares market is dead, although some life was displayed in Miami this forenoon. It is now allowed that the relatively low average yield during March by the Lake Copper Company was attributable entirely to the non-rejection of poor rock or such as would ordinarily be discarded.

TWO MORTALLY HURT BY TAXI

NEW YORK, April 7.—Twenty policemen, with revolver levelled and clubs raised, saved three joy riders from being beaten to death by fifty angry workmen of Broome street and the Bowery this morning, after a taxicab in which they had been breaking speed records had dashed into a ditch, knocking over a dozen men and mortally injuring two of them. The chauffeur was finally locked up charged with assault. The two injured men have small chance to recover.

STOCK MARKET IS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, April 7.—Stocks were irregular in the early trading to-day, with leading issues under pressure. Reading and Amalgamated Copper lost a point each, and others were down fractionally. Before the end of the first half hour, business had become stagnant. There was no urgent offering of stocks in the general list. The closing of another Brooklyn bank had no influence on the market, as it had been expected.

American shares showed loses in the London market. Cotton was steady around the closing prices of yesterday, in spite of the fact that the McFadden and Patten interests are said to be engaged in a desperate fight. Cotton brokers are talking twenty cents for cotton, which would be an advance of six cents a pound.

The Curb market was quiet, without material changes in any issues. American Tobacco was slightly higher.

Big Piano Bargains

EVERY MAKE Are you thinking of buying a piano of some special make—a piano that has a good reputation—one that every-one knows is a first-class make? If you are, you are just the person to whom we wish to say—"Don't pay too much for it"—you will be asked a good round price for it unless you get it of us. We are in no trade or financial combination to keep the prices of pianos up—the name of a piano means much—it guarantees the instrument—but when the piano gets to our sacrifice floor the name is not considered. When we cut the price we cut all alike—and we cut deep. You buy while we cut.

Chancellor Day Is Good for Something, After All

He Has Reminded the People That Mr. Taft Has Strong Enemies, as Well as Many Petty, Nagging Critics

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal Examiner

Mr. Day, chancellor of the University of Syracuse, appeared to be, until very recently, a worthless piece of furniture in our national museum.

He is the individual who gets money for his university from John D. Archbold—the same Archbold that sent the slimy Standard Oil checks to the United States Senate!

After getting this Archbold money, which seems to flow in a pretty steady stream through the Syracuse pipe-line, Mr. Day spends his leisure hours singing the praises of Archbold and the Standard Oil, and denouncing every criticism of them.

We couldn't imagine any much more worthless sort of occupation than that!

Yet Mr. Day is not worthless, entirely.

For the other day he joined in the chorus of thoughtless, half-baked criticism aimed at President Taft.

And in doing so he reminded the public THAT MR. TAFT MUST BE AN HONEST MAN, SINCE STANDARD OIL TOADIES ATTACK HIM.

Mr. Day and the Standard Oil, be it remembered, attack and dislike ONLY THE PEOPLE THAT THE STANDARD OIL CANNOT USE!

The attack by Chancellor Day ought to stir up a little serious thinking in the minds of some of the self-important editors and others that have been so free in their criticisms of Mr. Taft.

Editors so ready to cheer for any crack-brained individual who tells of the wonderful things he is going to do, AND THEN DOESN'T DO THEM, ought to give a fighting chance to a man like Taft, who works hard, doesn't brag, and who has given no man an opportunity to make a fair and honest attack upon him, and who is surely entitled to a hearing, to a fair trial and suspension of judgment from decent citizens and responsible newspaper men—however much the Standard Oil, through its mouthpiece, Chancellor Day, may have condemned him in advance.

Mr. Marshall for Supreme Court?—We Hope Not

It Would Be a Sudden Jump from Fighting Weak, Sick Children to Handing Down Supreme Court Decisions

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal Examiner

A telegram from Washington announces that Mr. Marshall of the law firm of Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall of New York is slated—by himself and friends—for the Supreme Court vacancy created by the death of Justice Brewer.

It is also said that Mr. Taft declares that he has Mr. Marshall on the list of eligibles.

Without any wish to hurt Mr. Marshall's feelings, or to reflect on his profound legal ability, we suggest to President Taft that he REMOVE Mr. Marshall from that list of eligibles.

Mr. Marshall is a member of the law firm that distinguished itself in a very savage and effective fight against a refuge for poor children at Lakewood.

Kind-hearted men and women had arranged to take from the city of New York a certain number of half-starved children living under dangerous conditions and build them up in the air of the Lakewood pines.

But this didn't suit the aristocratic and selfish instincts of some other individuals of Lakewood. THEY didn't want the sickly children around them. They wanted them to go somewhere else. In short, they wanted to kick them out of Lakewood, anyhow. AND THE FIRM OF WHICH MR. MARSHALL IS A MEMBER WAS ENGAGED TO DO THE KICKING OUT.

It was done successfully. And the aristocratic atmosphere of Lakewood is not to be contaminated with the presence of friendless, sickly children.

We beg to suggest to Mr. Taft that a law firm able and willing to keep the wretched poor of the big cities from finding a refuge from disease anywhere in the country near the rich and prosperous WILL PROBABLY HAVE PLENTY OF IMPORTANT, LUCRATIVE WORK ON ITS HANDS FOR MANY YEARS TO COME!

The fact that these children were put out of Lakewood, the fact that Mr. Marshall's law firm was successful in its contention that the poor have no rights when their presence interferes with the delicate sensibilities of the rich, will cause many prosperous neighborhoods to engage Mr. Marshall's firm for similar work.

AND ULTIMATELY IT WILL PROBABLY BE AS IMPOSSIBLE TO FIND A REFUGE FOR POOR CHILDREN WITHIN TWENTY MILES OF A RICH MAN'S HOUSE IN THE COUNTRY AS IT WOULD BE TO FIND A LOCATION FOR A COLONY OF LEPERS.

We do not say that Mr. Marshall's firm was not absolutely sincere, absolutely whole-hearted in its successful effort to prove a connection between the bodily leprosy of old and the modern leprosy of poverty.

It has even been stated that in the fight which Mr. Marshall's firm made against the poor children THERE WAS NO CASH EXCHANGED! Friends of the firm say that the firm did the work "con amore," so to speak, out of sheer love of it and without being paid.

If that is the case, we submit that such a firm would scarcely be represented on the Supreme Bench of the United States if the citizens of the country had a vote. We believe that Mr. Taft, in his appointments, considers the opinions of those that elected him.

And we believe that he will find for the Supreme Bench some lawyer in a firm that has never been distinguished by the energy and success of its attack upon unfortunate children.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

FEARS ENGLAND.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Is it not strange that, with England secretly plotting to bring about a war between our country and Japan, we should have our ex-Vice-President at a banquet in London telling the English people that on his tour of the world he found the English flag flying, bringing with it justice and freedom?

He evidently did not visit India, where English INJUSTICE exceeds by far the injustice of the Belgium Government in the Congo, to which every paper in this country devoted its columns in abuse of the late King.

It will pay the press of this country to watch England well, for she fears America and if at all possible will use her best efforts to bring about a war between Japan and America. By such a war England will kill two birds without even using a stone—i. e., set Japan back to a fifth-rate power and curtail American enterprise in the Far East, and wherever America competes with England.

JAMES BRADY.

SELFISH INTEREST.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

From a perusal of an interview with Louis W. Hill, recently published in the AMERICAN, it is apparent that the president of the Great Northern Railroad approves only of that governmental policy which will increase the freight traffic of his road or confer upon him and his associates some peculiar benefit.

PROSPECTS OF STRENUOUS STATE CAMPAIGN

EBEN S. DRAPER is a very bold and a very positive man. He declares that he is going to be nominated and elected Governor this fall for the third time.

He is surprised that anyone should place any stock in the rumor that he might, under certain circumstances, retire from the field.

That is the Governor's defiance to the insurgents in the Republican party of Massachusetts. That is his challenge to them to go ahead and do their worst.

If any of the admirers of Speaker Joseph Walker or of Representative Norman White or of District Attorney John J. Higgins of Middlesex or of Congressman Weeks of Newton, or if any of the old guard who would like to recall ex-Governor Long to the executive chamber, have been nursing the belief that the man who won a second term as Governor by the narrow margin of 8,000 votes—when the normal Republican plurality is 30,000—was going to retire, they are very much mistaken.

Whatever else may be said of Governor Draper, he is no quitter. He is a fighter who gives and takes hard blows as a part of the game. No man in public life in this Commonwealth is so popular with the members of the State and local Republican committees as Governor Draper.

In many ways he has developed a more lovable personality in the last few years. He has done many acts of kindness on the express understanding that the part he played was not to be made a matter of public news.

Has Corporation Official's Viewpoint.

He has broadened and softened in many ways since he became Governor, but there still remain these characteristics and habits that are scheduled as faults:

A strong pride of opinion; a trend of thought that regards measures affecting corporations from the corporation standpoint; a disposition to look upon matters affecting labor from the corporation official's viewpoint; and a showing of hostility to all so-called "common people's" measures that have caused him to be looked upon, not only by the Democrats and by the labor men, but by many of his own party, as a political autocrat.

No one recognizes the storm that is gathering and threatening to disrupt the Republican party machine better than Governor Draper. He must appreciate the fact that there is a strong opposition to him in his own party, but, evidently, he believes the situation should be met with a stern front, that there should be no compromising with an opposition composed of some men who are ambitious for political preferment and advancement and of others who are anxious to rule the Republican political field.

Governor Draper must realize these facts:

His persistent advocacy of the bill to make the bonds of the Boston Holding Company legal investments for savings banks has lost him the support of many bankers and of many depositors.

His attitude toward the dairymen and farmers who have been anxious to secure better treatment from the railroads in the transportation of their dairy and farm products into the large cities has lost him the support of the agricultural element who are inclined to think that he is more friendly to the railroads than to them.

Vetoing of Eight-Hour Law Alienates Labor Vote.

His friendship for Senator Lodge and Senator Lodge's friendship for him, and his ever-ready defence of the doings of the Republican State machine and the Republican State machine's unfaltering support of the Draper policies has alienated from the Governor the support of many Republicans with independent tendencies.

The strong and growing spirit of antagonism to the "succession to the throne" rule of the Republican party bosses, which says that the term of a Governor shall be three years, of a Lieutenant Goevrnor three years, and that the Lieutenant Goevrnor shall succeed the Governor, will operate to the disadvantage of Draper and Frothingham this year to the extent of several thousand votes.

Because he insists upon vetoing an eight-hour law that means something, he not only will have no votes from the members of organized labor, but he will lose the votes of many Republicans who believe in this piece of labor legislation. The vote in the House on this measure shows that the Republican party opposition to the Governor's attitude is extensive.

The man who is looming up as a strong Republican figure in this State and who, many think, may be nominated over Draper is Joseph Walker, speaker of the House. He is surprising both his friends and those who have been his enemies by the breadth of statesmanship that he has been showing of late.

He has boldly shown himself in favor of more liberal labor laws, for instance, telling the Central Labor Union men of Boston that he would favor a workman's compensation act that would mean something.

That statement is highly important in view of the statement by President Taft at Worcester on a national measure of similar import. The attitude of Walker and of Taft is identical, and, therefore, Walker has strong Republican indorsement for his stand in this matter.

Speaker Walker an Advocate of Reforms.

He has declared himself in favor of direct nominations. He has insisted that the power of the bosses and the machines should be weakened and that the day of honest elections should be hastened.

He has been a strenuous advocate of anti-stock-watering laws. He has not yet reached the point of favoring direct legislation through the initiative and referendum, but it looks as if he were on the way.

There is deep significance in the fact that Speaker Walker has been touring the State and that he has been meeting with enthusiastic receptions wherever he has spoken. There is so much significance in this that Chairman Hatfield and Secretary Groves of the Republican State Committee have felt obliged to cover the ground over which Walker travelled.

They have not been satisfied to take the reports of their local agents, but they needs must visit the cities and towns which gave receptions to the speaker and learn for themselves the effect he made.

That they have heard some things that were not pleasant or at all satisfying is a fact. And, undoubtedly, it is because of that knowledge that this bold declaration comes from Governor Draper that he is to be nominated and elected again, in the effort to forestall the Walker boom or any other boom.

There can be no doubt but that the Republican machine leaders fear the feeling in favor of Speaker Walker. They fear his attitude, which is, that he is not seeking the nomination, more than they would his open avowal of a desire for it.

They have not forgotten the lesson of the Fourteenth Congressional District, but evidently they do not intend to profit by it. They insist that the tariff and the high price of living argument put forth by Congressman Foss had nothing to do with the result; that the personality and unpopularity of the Republican candidate was the only cause of his defeat.

And yet, realizing the many elements of unpopularity which Governor Draper possesses, they intend to force him upon the Republican ticket for a third term.

Effort Being Made to Sidetrack Mr. Vahey.

The Republicans cannot depend, in their hope of electing Draper, on any issues that he may raise or any personal following that he may develop. They are banking on the hope that the Democrats, flushed with their taste of victory, will do the unwise and foolish thing in their State convention, and, through their indirect channels, they are fostering the trouble that is yeasting in the Democratic house.

It would seem as if the Democrats were taking counsel of their enemies, if some of the plans suggested by their leaders are to be taken seriously. They would force Vahey off the ticket after two gallant campaigns under his leadership.

What could be worse politics than that? Vahey might be induced to put aside personal ambition for the good of the party, but he never would allow himself to be forced out of consideration because some man with a barrel of money is wanted by the Democratic campaign managers. Nor would his friends vote for such a candidate.

The "barrel" candidate has never been a popular Democratic candidate. For instance, Henry M. Whitney. The only exception to the rule is William L. Douglas, but his popularity as a liberal employer brought to him the votes of many Republican workingmen.

The Republicans are hoping that Foss will be the Democratic nominee for Governor. Nominated in a proper way, there is no doubt that Foss would be a strong candidate against Draper, but, nominated against the wishes of Mr. Vahey and his friends, he would make a poor showing at the polls.

"We want Foss and a well-known Boston business man, both of whom could furnish the sinews for a thorough campaign," is the cry of some of the enthusiastic Democratic leaders. But what they want and what the rank and file of the Democracy would accept are two different things. It might not be the wisest thing in the world for the Democrats to nominate a man with a barrel against Draper, and it might be the part of wisdom for Vahey to step aside for a more popular candidate. The thing for the Democrats to do is to find that man and convince Vahey.

It may be seen from this review of the condition in both camps that the campaign of this year is to be the most important and the most interesting since Douglas defeated Bates.
